GOLDEN WEDDING BLOW WAS FATAL

Mr. and Mrs. Love Observed Anniversary

Man Died After Receiving it

Mr. and Mrs. John Love observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage yesterday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Frederick Chalk, 151 Warren street. The occasion was quietly observed only the relatives and immediate friends of the happy couple being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Love were united in marriage May 10, 1859, in the County of Tyrone, Ireland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Thompson, an Episcopalian clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. Love came to America 25 years ago, living until 1880 in Cleveland, N. Y. Mr. Love was engaged in the boot and shoe business in his native land, and he also had a good farm. He is now retired. His health is excellent, as is also that of Mrs. Elizabeth Love, his wife. They have six daughters, as follows: Mrs. Mary Ann Kahlis and Mrs. Baldwin of Marquette, N. Y.; Mrs. William Turner and Mrs. John W. P. of Lowell, N. Y.; Mrs. Maria Groth of Newburgh, N. Y.; and Mrs. Frederick Chalk of this city.

NORTH BARNSTABLE, N. H., May 11.—A single blow delivered last night during a quarrel between Peter Ackermann 55 years old, and Oliver Foss, 25 years old, was followed by Ackermann's death. The short scuffle took place in the main road of this town, in front of Ackermann's door, according to witnesses, and the body remained there for five hours. Last night, surrounded by a small crowd of curious people, awaiting the coming of the coroner. No arrest was made pending the arrival of the deputy sheriffs.

Foss was formerly engaged as a helper on Ackermann's farm. He is married and has one child. Ackermann is not married. The cause of last night's quarrel is unknown, but, according to two men who witnessed it, the name of a woman was mentioned shortly before the blow was struck.

THE SITUATION

IN ADANA REPORTED TO BE IMPROVING

ADANA, May 11.—The situation here and throughout the province is improving. The government is beginning to restore the plunder and the people are beginning to return to their homes, many of which are still standing. The military commander has sent troops into country districts to maintain order and enable the refugee farmers to get out and harvest their crops.

The Rev. Mr. Lawson and the Rev. W. N. Chambers have gone to Hadjin to aid the American women teachers there. The Rev. Stephen H. "Cross" bridge is proceeding to Antak, while Dr. P. D. Shepard has gone to Badkiche, where there is great need, a great majority of the male residents having been killed off.

SIX DROWNED

BY THE CAPSIZING OF GASOLINE LAUNCH

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., May 11.—None being able to swim, George Hall, R. H. Sweet, Sweet's wife and four children were drowned in the swollen waters of the Chippewa river Saturday night when Hall's gasoline launch, which they were trying out for the first time, capsized in midstream, striking some sunken piling. Nobody saw the launch capsize.

THE STORE FOR THRIFTY PEOPLE

Now Comes Our May Selling of the Newest and Prettiest Under Muslins

That we can find. Though these dainty white garments were all thought of and purchased months ago, when "panicky" times made prices low and manufacturers would accept orders at most any price. Then, too, there are sample garments among them which have been tossed and handled in the show room, but will come out snowy white again after the first rubbing.

Our Underwear comes from reliable makers that are humane in their methods of manufacture—meaning no skimping of the sizes and trimmings, and that the garments are made thoroughly in light, sanitary work-rooms.

Issued Address to Hibernians of Ireland

DUBLIN, May 11.—Matthew Cummings, president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, and the Rev. Father P. H. O'Donnell, state chaplain of Massachusetts, who have been here for the past month as delegates for the order, have issued an address to the Hibernians of this country, signifying the board of Erin section as "purely political organization, disregarding of Catholic authority." Accordingly they announce that the American order will refuse to have any connection with this section until it becomes non-political and obedient to Catholic authority.

"Happily," they added, "we succeeded in uniting $300 other Hibernians into one harmonious non-political body obedient to the Catholic church, and suggest that a convention of this body be held not later than August 1."

SHOTS FIRED

BILLERICA PEOPLE WERE GIVEN A SCARE

The discharging of two shots from a revolver in Billerica Centre early Sunday morning caused considerable excitement for a short time. A report that eggs were shooting up the town got about, but an investigation resulted in it being learned that the shots had been fired by an unknown man who was standing on the steps of the Lexington or Boston R. R. waiting room who disappeared after firing the shots.

The men fired upon were returning from one of the camps on the Concord river. When they reached the corner of River street and the Boston road where the waiting room is located, one of the men noticed a man on the platform of the building. They drew up the team and called out to the party on the platform, asking him what he was doing there. The reply was two shots fired in rapid succession. Thereupon the men in the team whipped up their horse and got away from the scene with all possible haste.

Tell How They Escaped Once by Novel Ruse

LAWRENCE, May 11.—In the arrest of Jeremiah and John E. Brophy, brothers, aged 15 and 17, respectively, who were arrested in a Boston hotel, May 5, the state police believe they have unraveled half a hundred breaks in Essex and Middlesex counties since last January. Not since the famous Hayden gang has there been anything in this section equal to the career of these boys, who confound to a series of breaks.

Lexington and North Reading chiefs of police talked with the boys yesterday, and are reported to have obtained from them acknowledgments of breaks in both towns. In North Reading the premises entered were those of Fred A. Childs and George H. Maywood. The breaks to which the boys have confessed are scattered through North Andover, Boxford, Topsfield, Wyndfield, Danvers, North Reading, Wakefield, Billerica, Bedford, Lexington and Lincoln.

HOWARD ESCAPED ONLY ONE WEEK

Made His Way From Danvers Asylum

Frederick Howard, 42 years, who on Dec. 2 last, chased his wife through a window at his home, 8 Hutton avenue, Wigganville, on to a piazza from which she subsequently fell and was injured, escaped from the insane asylum at Danvers a couple of weeks ago, and this morning appeared in Lowell. He first went to his home, but his wife had been warned of his escape and was living with relatives in another part of the city. Howard, finding no one in the house, went to the U. S. building, where his daughter, Elizabeth, employed, and was detained there until the police were notified. He was arrested by Patrolmen Flanagan and Conway and sent to the police station. He will be returned to the asylum.

Two weeks ago when Howard escaped from the asylum at Danvers the local police were notified and they in turn informed Mrs. Howard. The latter with the incident which occurred last December still fresh in her memory, closed her house and took up her residence with a relative. Despite the fact that the police were on the lookout for the man Mrs. Howard was fearful that her husband would manage to find her and kill her.

R.R. CONDUCTORS

Opened Their Convention in Boston

BOSTON, May 11.—The opening of a ten day convention of the order of Railway Conductors of America in this city today was the signal for the invasion of the city by thousands of railwaymen and their wives from nearly every point in the United States and Canada reached by the railroads. The vanguard arrived in Boston several days ago and since then delegates have been pouring into the city by the score from all directions until hotel accommodations have been taxed to their utmost capacity. The total number of visiting delegates will number well up in the thousands when the last have arrived and it is predicted that the convention will be one of the most successful in the history of the order both in point of attendance and business. The annual meeting of the ladies' auxiliary which has its own program to be carried out during the ten days it will be in session will also meet in convention.

The delegation from Indianapolis comes headed by Mayor Rookwatter and a number of prominent business men of that city who will endeavor to persuade the order to hold its next convention in that city and also to make the city its national headquarters.

Among other prominent men expected are: Thomas Taggart, former national chairman of the democratic party, and W. C. Taylor, former attorney general of Indiana.

The opening meeting of the convention was held at Ford hall shortly after noon and was very brief, the principal business being the announcement of the various committees by the president.

Preceding the meeting of the parent organization the ladies' auxiliary was given a public reception at Franklin union by the Massachusetts division.

DEATHS

MARKHAM—John Markham, aged 1 year and 6 months, died yesterday at the home of his parents, John J. and Catherine Markham, 11 Floyd street. The funeral will take place at 2.30 on Wednesday afternoon from the home of his parents. Undertaker Peter H. Savage.

DUNFEY—Mrs. Jennie Harding Dunfee, wife of ex-Police Officer Dunfee, and one of Pawtucketville's best known and well beloved residents was found dead in her sleeping apartment this morning at an early hour, her death being a most distressing result of mental derangement which was first noticed yesterday. The deceased was 55 years of age and a native of Fall River, Mass., though she had lived nearly all her life in this city. She was a beautiful character, a loving wife and devoted mother and a devout Catholic, being prominent in the charitable affairs of St. Patrick's parish. She was a member of the Holy Family Society of St. Patrick's church. Her devotion to her family was most intense and recent illness and reverse preyed so heavily upon her mind as to finally unbalance it. Mr. Dunfee was away from home at the time, being employed in the Navy Yard at Charlestown, Mass., and he was hastily summoned home. Besides her husband she leaves two daughters, Misses Jennie and Agnes and two sons, William and John. Owing to the sad circumstances friends are invited to the funeral mass, only, the time of which will be announced later and the burial and the period of sorrow at the home preceding it will be private. Friends are earnestly requested not to send flowers.

FUNERALS
UNKNOWN—The funeral of the unknown child who was found dead in a field in upper Gorham street, last Saturday, took place yesterday afternoon from the funeral parlors of the Horace E. Co. in Highland street. Burial was in the Edison cemetery.

WRIGHT—The funeral of F. W. Wright took place this morning at 10 o'clock from the funeral establishment of C. M. Young & Co. Rev. N. W. Matthews officiated at the service. The bearers were relatives. Interment in Pine Ridge cemetery, Chelmsford, in charge of C. M. Young.

HOGAN—The funeral of Mrs. Anna F. Hogan, a former well known resident of this city, took place yesterday afternoon from the Northern depot, and the remains were followed to the grave in the Catholic cemetery by a large concourse of old friends of the deceased. The committal service at the grave was read by Rev. Fr. Murphy of St. Charles's church, and the interment was in charge of Undertaker Peter H. Savage. Mrs. Hogan was 59 years of age and is survived by her husband, John J. Hogan, foreman of machine printing at the Windsor Print Works of North Adams, where the couple have resided since removing from Lowell some years ago. The deceased was a beautiful Christian woman, a devout Catholic and prominent in church circles at North Adams. She was well known and beloved in this city.

OLD TIME REVIVAL MEETINGS
Great effort is being made to bring about an old time revival at the Shepherd Mission, 261 Dutton street. Rev. D. T. Burns of Boston is to be the first speaker. Commencing Wednesday night, May 12, to 23, every night at 7.30. Out of town and local ministers will preach. There will be solos and choruses singing led by Superintendent Shepherd. All are requested to pray for these meetings. Everybody welcome.

101 ST BIRTHDAY
Observed by Mrs. M. E. Robinson Yesterday

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Robinson, Lowell's oldest resident, observed her 101st birthday at her home, 80 Lawrence street, and received congratulations and remembrances from many friends. Mrs. Robinson received her friends in the upper chamber which she has occupied for the past year. The room was adorned with nosegays of wild flowers, of which Mrs. Robinson is very fond. She was in comparatively excellent health and spirits. Mrs. Robinson was born in what is now known as Roxbury, but which was then called Boston, May 10, 1808. She married Alexander Hamilton Robinson in 1825. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Francis Parkman, in the old North church, Boston. She came to this city shortly after her marriage and for eight years lived in the boarding-house kept by the mother of the late Benjamin F. Butler. Later Mrs. Robinson moved to what is now 106 Church street, later going to 59 Lawrence street, which is now her home. There she and her husband lived for many years. For 55 years Mr. Robinson was paymaster in the Appleton mills, afterwards being pensioned by the Appleton company.

Due to the recent illness of Miss Agnes Robinson, a daughter of Mrs. Robinson, no preparations had been made for more than informal calls of friends. Miss Agnes Robinson is much improved in health now. Miss Frances Robinson, the other daughter, has the general care of her mother.

WOMAN MURDERED

Her Body Found in an Old Hebrew Cemetery

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 11.—The body of Laura E. Register, a 32 year old Cranston woman, who has been divorced and who was engaged to be married in the near future, was found in the old Hebrew cemetery on Reservoir avenue today. The body had been terribly battered and bruised about the neck, indicating that the woman was strangled to death. The clothing was also torn and it was the supposition of the police today that she was murdered on the high road and that the body was dragged across the street over the fields to the cemetery.

The woman was employed by a local manufacturing jewelry concern and lived with her parents in Cranston. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Register of 15 Pleasant street.

She was in excellent spirits last evening and talked with her folks concerning her approaching marriage. She was last seen on an electric car. An ice man who works in the ice-houses near the cemetery discovered the body on his way to work.

Joseph Rosen and William Lowry were the men who made the discovery. They were passing the cemetery gate when one of them stumbled over a woman's hat. A short distance beyond they found a pair of gloves and continuing their walk down a footpath which borders the cemetery, places of clothing came in view. At the top of an embankment the grass was beaten down and there was every evidence of a forceful struggle. Peering over the embankment the men saw the body.

It was faced upwards. The clothing was tattered and torn. The eyes were blackened and the front part of the scalp had been pulled from the scalp. Fingerprint was visible on the neck. She had also been assaulted.

The police learned that Miss Register left her home at 7.45 last evening. She walked to the reservoir, car line which is but a few hundred yards from the scene of the murder. On the car she chatted pleasantly with Emma McGuire, a friend, and told her she was going to her dressmaker on Earle street. Privately, however, she was preparing her wedding garments.

The few houses that are in the vicinity of the cemetery were visited by the police today. In one of them a nurse—Annie Gray—told them that about midnight she heard a scream but thought nothing more of the incident.

Medical Examiner Jay Perkins was called by the police and immediately began an autopsy.

Charles Douglas, a jeweler, who lives at 9 Allenton street, this city, was engaged to Miss Register and the wedding was to have taken place within a few weeks. Ernest Allen also of this city is the divorced husband of the woman.

It was the theory of the police today that she had taken the last Reservoir car from the city and was met by her assailant who probably hid in the shadow of the cemetery gatepost. The struggle, they contend, began immediately and continued as she was dragged around the cemetery. The assault took place on the embankment, they believe. She was then strangled and the body thrown down the embankment, a distance of some ten feet where she died.

SOME DIFFERENCE BETWEEN COMMANDER OF ARMY AND CABINET
CONSTANTINOPLE, May 11.—A difference of opinion has arisen between Scheffer Pasha, commander of the constitutional army that entered Constantinople April 14 and the political cabinet.

Scheffer Pasha is of the opinion that the cash found in the Imperial palace of 1914 after the expulsion of Abdul Hamid should be used to pay the expenses of his army, while the ministers want the money turned into the national treasury. The funds in question now amount to $3,000,000. Scheffer Pasha has one advantage in the controversy, inasmuch that the money is in the hands of the militia and has been deposited at the war office.

BOULGER ON STAND

Gives Frank Statements on Every Charge Against Board

When the mayor's police board hearing was resumed today Commissioner Boulger, who was on the witness stand when the hearing adjourned yesterday, was recalled and Mr. Johnson continued his examination of him.

"You are charged with lack of good faith in the hotel cases," said Mr. Johnson.

"I acted on the hotel cases according to my best judgment," said Mr. Boulger.

Asked upon what he based his judgment when he voted to grant hotel licenses in 1908, Mr. Boulger said he based his judgment upon what attorneys had said and also in view of what Judge Bell had said.

Mr. Boulger was first asked relative to the Arlington hotel or the grant of its license in 1908. He said he knew Mr. Halloran very well, and knew that his house had always borne a good reputation.

Mr. Boulger said he knew Mr. Garrison and his hotel, the Old Washington Tavern. He knew Mr. Garrison to be a man of splendid character and knew that he conducted a good house.

Mr. Boulger was asked relative to his knowledge of other hotel men and their ability as hotel proprietors and he spoke very well of them so far as his knowledge of them went and he knew most of them for several years.

Witness said that the character of Judge Bell had said.

CHINESE DEMAND PROTECTION

LIMA, Peru, May 11.—The Chinese minister to Peru following the rioting in this city last Sunday in the course of which a number of Chinese stores were looted, has demanded protection for Chinese subjects as well as the payment of damages to his compatriots who suffered losses. Foreign Minister Porras has promised protection and says the government will settle all just claims.

Owing to the economic condition in Peru the government has called a meeting of representatives of the companies engaged in public undertakings and will ask them to provide work for the unemployed. The municipality of Lima will inaugurate several public undertakings to this same end.

CONGRESS OPENS

The National Episcopal Church Meeting Held

BOSTON, May 11.—With many of the leading bishops, rectors and laymen of the Episcopal church present from all parts of the country the 27th annual national Episcopal church congress was opened in this city today.

The congress will be in session four days during which the many phases of the church life will be discussed by noted ecclesiastics of the denomination and prominent laymen.

This is the third time since its inception in New Haven, Conn., in 1871 that the Episcopal church congress has met in Boston, although it is fifteen years since the last session was held here. It is also the third congress over which Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts has presided, a record which no other bishop of the church in America has achieved.

The congress while being a forum where the principles and acts of the church are discussed has no executive function. It has no authority to make rules or change in any way the policy of the church. It is held principally to provide a forum where subjects of vital interest to the delegates and which virtually concern the people at large may be discussed.

Among the many well known prelates of the church who are in attendance at the congress perhaps the most notable and the one whose words will be awaited with the greatest interest is Canon H. Hensley Henson of Westminster. Canon Henson is one of the strongest advocates in the English church of the doctrine of closer relationship between the Episcopal and other churches of the Protestant denominations. He will speak before the congress on the relation of the church to other communions.

The congress assembled for its first meeting at Trinity church shortly before noon where a holy communion service was held. Following this the opening address was delivered by Right Rev. Dr. Edward M. Parker, bishop coadjutor of New England.

Except for today's meeting at Trinity the congress sessions will be held at Tremont temple.

WIDOW CURSES

When Manslaughter Plea is Accepted

BOSTON, May 11.—Salvatore Lastrigata was sentenced to state prison for a term of 16 to 20 years for manslaughter in causing the death of Giovanni Matarazzo, by Judge Schofield in the superior criminal court, yesterday.

He was indicted for murder in the first degree, but a plea of manslaughter was accepted by the government. Dist. Atty. Hill showed that this evidence might prove the act was done in hot blood. The surrounding circumstances of the case, Mr. Hill felt, justified an acceptance of a plea of guilty to the lesser offense, owing to the improbability of a conviction for murder, either in the first or second degree. He asked for a severe sentence. The maximum penalty is 20 years. The widow of Matarazzo, created a scene in the corridor, cursing the government for showing leniency to the defendant.

M. LOPUKINE
PLACED ON TRIAL AT ST. PETERSBURG TODAY
ST. PETERSBURG, May 11.—The trial of M. Lopukine, a former director of police who was arrested in St. Petersburg last January on the technical charge that he was a member of the revolutionary organization, began today before a crowded court. The audience was composed largely of witnesses. The hearing was conducted with open doors before a jury, including an admiral, a general, a marshal of nobility and a number of peasants. The president of the jury is Senator Varvarin. A number of high police officials have been summoned as witnesses.

AN ABLE LECTURE

On Tuberculosis Delivered by Dr.
Simon Cox

Before Associated Charities at City Hall—Fearful Death Rate from this Disease—6000 People in Lowell Today Will Die of Tuberculosis

Dr. Simon F. Cox, a former Lowell boy, superintendent of the Boston Tuberculosis hospital, and one of New England's most eminent authorities on the dread disease, gave an address at city hall, last evening under the auspices of the Associated Charities of Lowell on the subject of tuberculosis and its treatment.

The attendance was not what it should have been considering the importance of the subject and the high standing of the speaker. The only member of the board of charities present was Harry W. J. Howe, while none of the members of the board of health were present, that department being represented by Agent Bates and Inspector Connors.

Dr. Cox spoke for an hour in a most interesting and instructive manner on the treatment of the disease and pointed out the need for a tuberculosis hospital in Lowell. He was introduced by Martin J. Courtney, former superintendent of the city farm.

Lack of space alone prevents a more extended report of Dr. Cox's remarks which were replete with facts concerning this disease that should be known in every family. He spoke in part as follows:

Dr. Cox said in part:

I come here tonight to speak on consumption or tuberculosis from the standpoint of the economic loss to the community and we can divide the economic loss, according to Prof. Fisher, into four different heads; as follows:

Cost in lives, cost in disability, cost in unhappiness, cost in money.

These costs are not mutually exclusive, but overlap and are inter-related in many ways. It is, in fact, difficult to treat one without treating all. The chief and most fundamental cost is the cost of life, with which we shall, therefore, begin.

The mortality from tuberculosis may be expressed in several ways—in terms of (1) the number of deaths, (2) the crude death rate, (3) the "corrected" death rate, (4) the death rate according to age, sex, occupation, housing, financial competence, and other pertinent conditions.

The crude death rate from tuberculosis in the United States is given in the census reports, the latest figures being those contained in the volume on "Mortality Statistics, 1906." They relate to the "registration area," or states and cities in which accurate records are kept. In this area the death rate from tuberculosis of the lungs is estimated at 142 per 100,000 of the population; the death rate from tuberculosis in all its forms was 134. The registration area included about half of the population, or 41,000,000 out of the total population of 83,900,000.

The death rate of the United States can be estimated from these figures, assuming that the urban and rural death rates known for the registration area apply to the non-registration area. This gives for the whole United States an estimated death rate from tuberculosis of the lungs of 142 per 100,000, or 119,000 deaths for our population of 83,900,000 as estimated for 1906.

Tuberculosis of the lungs causes in the registration area 86.5 per cent. of the total deaths from tuberculosis. On the basis of this figure for the entire country, the death rate from tuberculosis in all its forms is estimated at 154 per 100,000, or 128,000 deaths per annum for the population of 83,900,000.

We have estimated the deaths from tuberculosis of all kinds in the United States as about 138,000. To realize the magnitude of this figure, we may compare it with the deaths from other well-known and much dreaded diseases. It equals (if we may judge by the registration area) the combined deaths from typhoid fever, scarlet fever, smallpox, diphtheria, cancer, diabetes, appendicitis and meningitis, and when we consider these diseases we see that deaths from tuberculosis in all its forms exceed the total deaths of all these diseases.

The extent of the ravages of tuberculosis may be brought home to us with great force if we compute how many of those now living are doomed to die if the present death rate continues. This can be calculated from the census, assuming that the distribution of deaths by age will remain the same. Calculating on this basis, it is found that out of 83,900,000 the age of 20 to 29, being then for males a little less than one-third of all deaths, and for females a little more than one-third. For the entire population, the deaths at the third decade of life from tuberculosis of the lungs, are almost exactly one in three.

This fact is of great significance in any estimate of the cost of tuberculosis. We cannot estimate the cost of disease by the number of deaths merely. A death from cholera, infantum or from Bright's disease is not as great a loss to a nation as a death from tuberculosis; for the reason that infants and the aged are of less value to a population than those living in the prime of life.

Tuberculosis picks its victim at the very period when the value of life is at a maximum, after the investment in the education and preparation for life of the young is finished, and before the period of declining vitality sets in, when the productivity of the individual has become exhausted.

The question is sometimes asked whether or not it is easy to save the lives of consumptives. Dr. Harlow, in his book on the Consumptive Working Man, answers this question with an emphatic yes. Even a cursory examination of the facts will make it clear that he is right. Taking one of the typical American sanatoria, in which excellent treatment is given at a greater expense than in some of the smaller institutions, it is found that the average cost of treating a patient during the average stay (three months) is $175. This takes into consideration the interest on the capital invested and depreciation. The prolongation of life by the sanatorium treatment has been already shown. About one-third of the patients are discharged with active tuberculosis and their lives continue on the average about four years. Another one-third have the disease arrested, and live on the average ten years after leaving the sanatorium. The remaining one-third are apparently cured, and their average prolongation of life is not certain, but is more than 16 years. The average prolongation of life, for all classes, is therefore, more than ten years, which must be reckoned as a saving of several thousand dollars to the patients and to those dependent on them. The major part of this saving can properly be credited to the sanatorium treatment, and means, many-fold the investment of $175.

The means by which this prolongation of life will properly be credited to the sanatorium treatment, and means, many-fold the investment of $175.

As compared with the total deaths from all causes, the percentage of deaths in the registration area of the United States from tuberculosis of all kinds in 1906 is not given in the census volume, but may readily be calculated. It is 11.5 per cent. In other words, one death in nine is due to tuberculosis. The deaths from tuberculosis of the lungs alone are 10.9 per cent. of all deaths. The deaths from tuberculosis of all kinds are 12.1 per cent. and the deaths from tuberculosis of the lungs alone are 10.9 per cent.

Accepting these figures, to Lowell, without considering deaths from age-related diseases, it is safe to state that of those now living at least 100,000 will die of tuberculosis in some form. Some of whom will die of tuberculosis of the lungs or consumption, and some of the large or consumptive.

It is found that the deaths from tuberculosis reach a maximum accompanied with other causes of death, at the reason is not far to seek. When a deputation of French experts visited him at Dayton a few years ago, noting had been published concerning the actual construction of their aeroplane. Their patents were not then fully perfected, and up to that time had maintained all possible secrecy through fear of imitation and infringement. Before the Frenchmen had returned to Paris full diagrams of the machine had been published broadcast in Europe, and many imitators were busy engaged in constructing aeroplanes. Thereafter the Wrights steadily declined to be interviewed. Now they hint that they have some surprises in store when they again demonstrate the workings of their machine at Fort Myer, Va. They will be in Washington on May 15, and President Taft will present to them a medal, the gift of the Aero Club of America. On June 17 they will visit Dayton, where a three days' celebration is being arranged in their honor. When Orville Wright went abroad after his accident at Fort Myer, in which Lieut. She shared all their honors abroad, meeting the king of Spain, King Edward, the king of Italy and thousands of other important personages. The accompanying illustration shows Miss Wright meeting King Alfonso of Spain. The figures in the picture are: No. 1, Miss Wright; No. 2, King of Spain; No. 3, Orville Wright.

When Orville Wright went abroad after his accident at Fort Myer, in which Lieut. Selbridge was killed, he was accompanied by Miss Katherine Wright, their sister, whose savings as a school teacher aided them in perfecting their invention. She shared all their honors abroad, meeting the king of Spain, King Edward, the king of Italy and thousands of other important personages. The accompanying illustration shows Miss Wright meeting King Alfonso of Spain. The figures in the picture are: No. 1, Miss Wright; No. 2, King of Spain; No. 3, Orville Wright.

total number of people living in the United States in 1906, almost exactly 83,900,000, are doomed to die of tuberculosis in some form. This number, we hope, will be materially reduced by the preventive measures now being set in motion.

As compared with the total deaths from all causes, the percentage of deaths in the registration area of the United States from tuberculosis of all kinds in 1906 is not given in the census volume, but may readily be calculated. It is 11.5 per cent. In other words, one death in nine is due to tuberculosis. The deaths from tuberculosis of the lungs alone are 10.9 per cent. of all deaths. The deaths from tuberculosis of all kinds are 12.1 per cent. and the deaths from tuberculosis of the lungs alone are 10.9 per cent.

THE TAXING OF INCOMES

The day has dawned in the British Islands when the poor will not have to hear all the burdens of taxation. The heavy income tax lifts a great load off the shoulders of the poor. If we followed Britain's example in this, we should see fewer immense fortunes such as those of Rockefeller, Carnegie and several others that are a menace to the people.

TO SLAUGHTER ALLIGATORS

The Florida house has passed a bill providing for the legal slaughter of alligators in the Ocklawaha river, from which the reptiles make nightly incursions to the pig pens along the river and carry off swine or swallow them bodily.

There is considerable opposition to the bill, however, not only within but without the state, for thousands of northerners annually visit Florida, mainly for the purpose of seeing the alligators. The alligators are thus a source of income there, while their skin is so valuable for leather, that this consideration alone is a strong argument against the extermination of the genus.

THE KIDNAPPERS' SENTENCE.

The sentence to the kidnappers of the Whitla boy in Pennsylvania may be considered severe, but a life sentence for the man and 25 years for the woman is not any more than their crime deserves. Perhaps that will put a stop to the kidnapping game for awhile. There are a good many people in this country who would not object to making death the penalty for the crime of kidnapping in its worst features. There is just one objection, however, and that is, that if the crime were punished by death the kidnappers would take care to kill the child rather than run any risk of letting it live to furnish evidence that might lead to their conviction. Nobody will have any sympathy for those convicted of such a heinous offense even if the sentence be imprisonment for life. The fact that a third party may be implicated as appears probable in this case does not mitigate the offense for the principals who carried out the plot and who were found with the ransom in their possession.

MAYOR BROWN'S BLUFF.

Mayor Brown took advantage of a public meeting last night to caution the people against believing what the newspapers print about him. He wants the people to go to city hall and find out for themselves. Anybody who would attend the police board hearing and hear the testimony of some of the witnesses would find out considerable about Mayor Brown's doings. But that is not what he wants. He wants the people to consult himself about what Mayor Brown is doing and what he intends to do. For our part we do not see that he is doing anything, only holding up the city's business and heaping needless expense on the city.

He charges the newspapers with falsely reporting him, but he should be asked for specific instances. He could no more prove these charges than he can prove his charges against the police board. Ex-Governor Bates must have thought after hearing Brown's tirade against the press, that our mayor is a much abused man, but the press, he will find, has never said much about Brown that it cannot prove. What Brown wants is that the newspapers help him to bluff the public. When Mayor Brown cautions the people against believing what the newspapers say of him, he is probably afraid that the newspapers may come out and tell the whole truth about him and his administration.

If Mayor Brown will point out a single case since he entered office in which The Sun made a mis-statement about him, we will publish a retraction.

DEATH FROM USING KEROSENE.

We have had another death as a result of lighting a fire with kerosene oil, the victim being Mrs. Gaudette of Hadley street. She poured kerosene upon a wood fire that seemed slow to light and in a moment after the kerosene blew the covers off the stove and spread the flames all around her. When her clothing caught fire she ran out of the house and across the street, falling helpless at the door of a neighbor. That is the usual course followed by a woman when she finds her dress on fire. As we have stated before, it would be better in all such cases if women relied upon their own efforts. They are usually close to one or more faucets and an abundant supply of water. If as soon as the blaze appears they rush to a faucet and turned it on in a dish or some other utensil and empty it on their heads, letting it run down over their bodies or throw it upon the floor and roll over and over in it until the dress soaks up the water, the fire would be extinguished more quickly and with less damage than when the woman runs out into the open air, thus fanning the flames.

If assistance is at hand in such a case the woman should lie down flat on the floor so that the flames will not rise up around her body and head. It is this mistake of standing up and running out screaming for help that makes their case hopeless. No woman need expect to run far with her dress afire without suffering fatal injury.

The best way, however, to avoid these fatalities is to stop lighting fires with kerosene and to be more careful about the use of kerosene lamps. More fatalities have been caused thus in this city than have resulted from large fires in tenement and business blocks. It is all due to carelessness on the part of the people themselves. We have had a sufficient number of fatalities recently to put people on their guard and we hope that the lighting of fires with kerosene will stop and that the kerosene glass lamp will be as far as possible driven from the homes. If a housekeeper wants to use kerosene to make the wood light more freely she can do so with safety by pouring oil on the wood before lighting it. But it seems practically useless to caution people against the danger in such cases because in spite of all warnings and in spite of so many horrible examples they will continue to expose themselves to the same danger and to suffer the penalty of their carelessness.

SEEN AND HEARD

When a man says, after he has spent fifteen minutes in the relation of an anecdote, "To make a long story short," you know that you are in for another fifteen minutes.

The practice of rotation in office doesn't appeal so strongly to a man when he is the one who is fortunate enough to hold the office.

It is true that Sir Walter Scott earned half a million dollars with his pen, but just think how much old Mr. Armour has acquired out in Chicago with his stockyards.

When a girl says that her hair is naturally curly after she has been out in a fog all the afternoon, believe her.

If the man who is always trying to get something for nothing doesn't get nothing for something before he gets through, he runs contrary to the usual experience.

It is hard to see how it can be true that automobile interferes with matrimony when so many young men get good jobs as chauffeurs at thirty dollars a week.

One of the first steps taken in the uplift of the farmer was when the bull caught him in the pasture, just before he reached the fence.

The living wife can never wholly understand why her husband's salary isn't raised more frequently.

One of the maddest men in Lowell just now is a miserly chap who has been sending letters to England right along with a five-cent stamp on each, and has just found out that the postage rate was reduced to two cents an ounce last October.

The woman who is always perfectly frank cannot expect to be successful in polite society.

When two old men get together for a conversation, they seldom talk much about anything more recent than twenty years ago.

Some people like to listen while other people like to talk. With proper adjustment why shouldn't everyone be happy?

At a pin shower given recently, the guests brought pins of all description, including hat pins, bay pins, safety pins, fancy and plain hairpins, veil pins, and pins to fasten the curtains. Some brought clothespins and rolling pins and the bride-to-be was given pins enough to last for many years, but there was no large number of diamond pins in the collection.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the Middlesex county commissioners until May 22, 1909, at 10 o'clock, a.m. at their office in the Courthouse, East Cambridge, Mass., for the erection of a Dormitory Building to be built at Middlesex County Training School, North Chelmsford, Mass., and at that time and place publicly opened and read.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for the sum of two thousand dollars, made payable to the treasurer of Middlesex County, Mass., and furnished by the contractor should the contractor refuse to sign the contract or furnish the bond as required in the specifications prepared by Harry Prescott Graves, architect. All proposals must be upon blank forms that may be obtained at office of architect.

THE WEARY MILE.

"Who goes with me a weary mile
Is kind to me indeed.
He shares with me my need—
Who doth my toilsome hour beguile
Lives the apostle's creed."

"I thank him, for I know how few
Possess such kindly heart.
I linger long to say adieu,
And dry the tears that start;
I linger long to say adieu,
I would not from him part."

"But who the second mile doth go,
Who does so much for me,
He is an angel sent below
From God's eternity—
What may I do to partly show
My love for such as he?"

"Oh, if within the time that gives
To life its interim
Such spirit with the spirit gives
To make my path less dim,
Love thou him for the Christ that lives,
And love the Christ for him."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

America as well as England is waiting for the new Gilbert-German comic opera, and while the name of Sir William is almost a household word here, not so many know of Edward German, who will set to music the new libretto by the author of "Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance," "Patience," and all the rest. Mr. German was born at Whitechurch, Salop, Eng., a bit more than 47 years ago, and has an individual expression almost as distinct as that of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan. He gained his first musical knowledge by playing the wind into the organ of the village church, and later went to the Royal Academy of Music to study the violin, giving that up, after meeting with much success, to devote his time to composition. He made his first mark with the incidental music he composed for Sir Henry Irving's revival of "Henry VIII." Since then he has written music for "Romeo and Juliet," "Much Ado About Nothing," "As You Like It," a number of symphonic suites and the operas "The Rival Poets," "The Emerald Isle," with Sullivan, "Merrie England" and "A Princess of Kensington," as well as many songs, including the music for Kipling's "Just So" book.

Hamilton C. Finley is the first democrat elected mayor of Hopkinton, Ill., since the city was incorporated thirty-eight years ago. He vigorously opposed a proposition to raise the mayor's salary, which has remained fifty cents a year since Hopkinton was incorporated. The aldermen receive twenty-five cents a year each.

A wedding that has just been made known by the departure of the bride and groom from New York for Walker, Ar., is that of a son of Portugal Pasha of Constantinople, and Miss Cara Goddard Colt of New York. The ceremony took place in the chantry of Grace church, and was performed by Rev. Carl Reiland, one of the curates of the parish. Portugal Bey, or Joseph H. Portugal, as he has called himself since coming to this country, left Turkey at a time when his father was high in the councils of the sultan. He studied mining engineering in England, and came here in the interest of a syndicate which has mining properties in Arizona. Miss Colt is the daughter of the late James P. Colt and is quite wealthy.

Carl F. Quenneville of Dennison is regarded as a realistic candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination in Iowa. He has long been prominent in Iowa affairs and is a former law partner of Leslie M. Shaw.

Duncan Uphaw Fletcher, who has been formally elected United States senator from Florida, has been considered senator-elect since the primaries last June, when he was nominated by the Democratic party in the primary vote. He is a lawyer, fifty years old, and has served as a member of the Florida legislature and as mayor of Jacksonville.

THAT'S WHAT A BOTTLE OF NEURALGIC ANODYNE COSTS.

Why, Oh why, do people suffer from neuralgic pains when they can be quickly cured for a few cents.

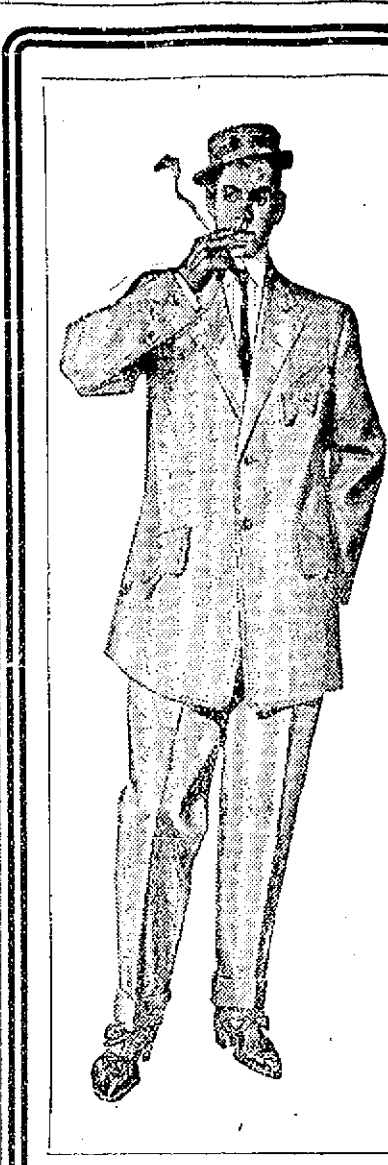

Probably, when in that agonizing condition, they can't think of the old, time tried and standard specific for neuralgia which is for sale everywhere at only 25 cents a large bottle.

NEURALGIC ANODYNE is a friend indeed in time of need, for it can be used internally and externally, and besides neuralgia, it cures cramps in the stomach, rheumatism, pleuritic nervous headache, lame back, or an irritating cough. Keep it in the house all the time. If you don't know about NEURALGIC ANODYNE, ask your neighbor. Made by The Twitchell-Champin Co., Portland, Me.

Stunning Suits

FOR YOUNG MEN

Styles that you'll not find in other stores—six handsome models in strictly young men's suits—the best lay-out we ever had. Sixty new and attractive patterns in this collection, all chosen to meet a young man's fancy. There's more "life" to the colorings, more "snap" to the cut than we show in our men's clothing.

Coats all have the athletic chest, are snugger fitting, "dipping" or not as you please. Pockets are well or flap, cut straight or on the slant; cuffs on some coats, others with plain sleeves. Trousers are full "peg" or half "peg," turn-up or not as you like. There are all colors here that are right—grays, plain and fancy blues, olives, slates, modes, tans, greens and smoke shades—and every coat, from the lowest priced, is made with a hand-padded collar.

Spacious fitters, excellent qualities and modest prices. Sizes 31 to 40 breast measure, big enough to fit some pretty husky young men.

CABINET CRISIS CITY CELEBRATES

Plan by Which it May be Averted The Girding of the New Sultan

ST. PETERSBURG, May 11.—A solution of the cabinet crisis, whereby Premier Stolypin and his colleagues in the cabinet will retain their posts, was arranged at a conference between the premier and the emperor, which continued until one o'clock this morning. M. Stolypin returned to St. Petersburg from Tsarskoe-Selo an hour later, bringing the text of an imperial rescript, expressing the confidence of the monarch in the ministers and his gratitude for their services and explaining the motives leading to the resignation of the cabinet, ordering the ministers to remain at their posts. The latter, after reiterating their representations of the possibility of rendering useful services under these conditions, decided that their duty, according to Russian precedents, was to continue in their offices. The rejection of the staff bill was announced in the customary way by the secretary of empire at a session of the council of the empire last evening. A law establishing a staff bill was issued later, as the imperial ukase is without parliamentary sanction. Under the new conditions the ministry cannot be considered stable, it being pointed out that the prerogative of the duma is merely to vote money, and a dissolution is expected at no distant date.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 11.—Mehmed V ended his "coronation day" by plowing a furrow in the lawn at Dolma Bagtsche palace, symbolically, at least, by holding the plow handles for a fraction of a minute, while two horses dragged it a few yards, in carrying out the ancient test. Mehmed V showed himself to be a man of body and fit to bear the physical burdens of the empire. It had been a day both of fulfillment of ancient customs and of the breaking of them. Christians were for the first time admitted to the small mosque attached to Ayvaz mosque, and allowed to see the ceremony of girding the sword of Osman upon the sultan. Among thirty persons present were Rucknam Pasha, an American, and Woods Pasha, an Englishman, both of whom are in the Turkish service. They were impressed with the beauty and solemnity of the ceremony, which, with the chants of the priests, only lasted twenty minutes. As the sultan crossed the courtyard of the mosque to enter his carriage, a turbanned Hadja, or leaching priest, caused a moment's excitement by running forward with a petition which he tried to hand to the sultan, at the same time talking somewhat wildly about the Koranic law. Two soldiers caught him and hurried him out of the yard. The day, notwithstanding rumors of reactionary plots, passed peacefully and without signs of disturbance. Lights were blazing in the minarets and mosques of Constantinople last night, the ships in the harbor are outlined in electric bulbs, and the city generally is celebrating enthusiastically the girding of the new sultan.

This Is What "Kayser" Means

That name in the hem of a silk glove means this: The makers of the gloves have the infinite skill attained by 25 years of experience.

The pure silk fabric is our own famous weave. It is so pure, so perfectly woven, we put a guarantee in each pair. The fit is perfection, as millions of women know. The tips are our patent tips.

The finish is due to fifty operations through which every Kayser glove goes.

Since the women of today were children, these have been the standard silk gloves. But you may get a glove that is vastly inferior unless you look for the name in the hem.

EX-GOV. BATES

Spoke Before the Lowell Baptist Social Union

"The heart of the Commonwealth" was the subject of an address delivered by Hon. John L. Bates of Boston at the open meeting of the Lowell Baptist Social Union held last evening at the Worthen Street Baptist church.

Mr. Bates was the principal speaker of the meeting and from 5:30 to 7 o'clock a reception was tendered him after which a banquet was served. There was a very interesting and a musical program.

The meeting was opened by Rev. S. W. Cummings of the First Baptist church and he introduced A. G. Walsh as the toastmaster of the evening. Mayor Brown was first introduced by Mr. Walsh and the mayor commended the daily press and made an appeal for re-election.

"I feel it my duty at this time to tell you that the former governor of this state, that we of Lowell have not forgotten him and I am glad also to note that he has not forgotten us. We should not forget him. We should not forget any person who has done his duty faithfully and well. Those who do not do their whole duty are soon forgotten, but a man of Hon. Mr. Bates' calibre cannot be soon forgotten."

"I am trying hard to do my duty. You elected me on certain issues and these issues I am trying to follow out. I think when the time presents itself I will have made my position clear."

"Don't measure me up by the reports in the daily press. I wish the women could vote. I know that they are fair-minded. I don't want you to believe everything you see in the press. I want you all to come up to city hall and find out for yourself. There is something behind everything that is said against me. I know why these articles are written. They are done for the purpose of creating sentiment against me. The press has not been fair with your men or women. When fall comes I want to be judged by my acts and that is all I ask of you. Corporate interests are represented by these papers. These interests are not friendly to me or to the people. They play politics day by day and when you elect their favorites you injure yourselves. I want to place myself right before you and all of the people."

In introducing the speaker of the evening Toastmaster Walsh said: "We ought to congratulate ourselves in securing a speaker so desirable as the man whom we have with us tonight. I should like to tell you all the good I know of this man. A man who has served with distinction, honesty and faithfulness in the highest office of the state. A man who is true to his convictions, is respected and loved by his fellow men. Such a man is Hon. John L. Bates. His subject, 'The Heart of the Commonwealth,' he knows as well, even better than most big men of our state. It gives me extreme pleasure to present to you, your old friend former Governor Bates."

Mr. Bates was received with applause and said in part: "We live in an age where the watch-word is 'pull yourself up by the bootstraps.' Compare the times of the present and those of the past and you will see for yourself what good can come from unity in action and purpose. This union of this organization should be the beginning of a power which should develop a great benefit to your surroundings. By going together and working in unity you have strength and in that you make power in your organization."

"We cannot accomplish much if we go at things single-headed. There is quick relief for an upset stomach, hiccoughs, a sick headache, constipated bowels, or a bilious attack is secured by using

76 YEARS OLD

Mrs. Wilson, Author of "St. Elmo"

MOBILE, May 11.—Mrs. Augusta J. Evans Wilson, who died at Mobile, Ala., at the age of 76, endeared herself to the hearts of all southerners through study of her novels as "St. Elmo," "Mirielle," "Vivian," and others.

The work done by the women at Sherburne and the girls at Lanxester was also the work done by the many trustees of these different institutions. They planned it and then built it. And this is not the only monument showing the work accomplished by the people who are confined there.

"The asylum is interesting also," said the speaker, continuing. "The old idea of treating the inmates in these places has also passed into oblivion. It is the desire of the state to make these places as cheerful as possible. The locations are made as pleasant as can be, books and papers are provided and everything done to keep their minds off their immediate surroundings. Don't think it a hopeless case when you see a person placed in one of these places for it is on record that between 200 and 400 are yearly discharged from these places as cured."

"We have many more wonderful institutions, such as those for the blind, the deaf and the dumb, all which go to make the state a more civilized state when you see a person placed in one of these places for it is on record that between 200 and 400 are yearly discharged from these places as cured."

"What are the duties of a state?" That is easily answered. A man in Chelsea, who had his earthly belongings wiped out in the disastrous fire there recently, came upon me one day after it had happened and I asked him what he had and his reply was 'all that the constitution could give me, life, health and right to the pursuit of happiness.' We don't always measure the good things in life in that way."

"It is the duty of our state to give us the right to health and the pursuit of happiness. We build up our nation at big expense, that we may receive protection. We say that it is the duty of the state also to teach us better and higher living, and this I proudly acknowledge as one of the first things considered by our people here."

"Honor, charity and virtue are three things which are striven for by our state, and it is to these particular points I wish to direct your attention at this time."

"If the state takes of its unfortunate prisoners at the most beneficial efforts which it is striving for. Those who are defective in mind and body have to be cared for. What a state does for such people shows its standards of civilization. I will take you to some of the institutions of our state for the purpose of showing you what is being done for these people."

"We have a multitude of men and women who the state finds must be placed under guard. We have sentenced to our jails between 25,000 and 35,000 each year, and this number out of a population of some 2,500,000, gives an average of one to every 100. There are about 10 men in every 100 who are in the state, having been built in 1804. This place has its history, and an interesting one at that. Previous to 30 years ago this place was conducted as all prisons of the times were then. In 1857 the first stone was laid for the new building of thanks extended to the jail for providing heat, that the feet of those confined there would not be frozen during the cold weather. From this fact alone one can judge the method of caring for the unfortunate who were cast into such places. Recalled, then, compare the regulations which are in effect at the present time. Take then the results which have been accomplished by the present system and those of the past, and you will readily see what great improvement for humanity generally has been done."

"You will not find luxuries at these institutions at the present, but you will find every necessity of life. Books, pictures and magazines are allowed, and the effects of such liberties are most beneficial. You will find a school room where the inmates are taught how to read and write. You will find a debating club. When I visited one of these places recently I came across a blackboard in the room occupied by the latter, and found that the subject, which had been treated by the members, and which had not been erased from the board, was: 'Recalled, then, compare the regulations which are in effect at the present time. Take then the results which have been accomplished by the present system and those of the past, and you will readily see what great improvement for humanity generally has been done.'"

"The greatest difficulty in most of these places was to find work for those who were confined. If we had the making of cloth in these places we would rise in competition with your mills of Lowell and that would hardly be fair. They divide the work into many branches and attempt to keep everyone busy. On one of my visits I went into a room and saw 50 men working at an old-fashioned hand loom. Everyone was engaged in his particular line and seemed to take an interest in it. I was later informed that the work accomplished by these 50 men could be done by one girl possessed of the modern machinery of the present day."

"At Concord the reformatory there is one of the most realistic climates, however, is the death of 'Fagan' in the prison in the last act. Those who witnessed the acting of Mr. Carleton in this particular scene will long remember it as an exceptionally fine piece of stage work."

The dual part of "Mr. Brownlow" and "Mr. Monks" was taken by Mr. James Morton and well acted. Mr. Frank Edwards as "Mr. Bumble" and Viola Armstrong as "Mrs. Carleton" furnished enough of comedy to evenly balance the sad parts of the play.

"The Artful Dodger" as played by Edward McArthur was fine. His cockney dialect seemed to come natural and his situations were highly comical. "Bill Sykes" was a difficult part to play, well handled by Arthur Evans. Miss Alice Hazen as "Nancy Sykes" also displayed clever acting. The other members of the cast assisted materially in the production. Performances will be given afternoons and evenings during the remainder of the week."

Have you seen the show at the Academy? It is a corker. That is what our friends from who attend the performance at the Academy, for the management is daily giving a quarter show for a nickel and the public realizes the fact. Each program consists of four reels of moving pictures, two illustrated songs and a series of views of the world known as Cartoons. All the pictures are new to Lowell, being first run films, coming direct to and that famous story "St. Elmo." In 1852 she was married to Col. L. M. Wilson, who died in 1851. She was born in Columbus, Ga., and in her early childhood lived at San Antonio, Tex. Lowell from the film manufacturers. All pictures are high class and nothing offensive, suggestive or gruesome is permitted on the Academy screen. The shows run daily from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 10:30. On Saturdays a continuous show is given from 2 to 10:30. Seats are only five cents, while there are some reserved seats at five cents extra.

Yesterday the Theatre Voyons offered a surprise to its patrons in the form of a mixed quartet which sang the illustrated songs. This quartet is composed of May Whitley, Winifred Flagg Symonds, Jack Manchester and Charles Rogers. May Whitley sings as her best song "You Sweetheart," Winifred Flagg Symonds sings "Denver Town," Charles Rogers sings that best of German novelty songs, "German," and the pictures is especially worth of note at this time when so much attention is given to Roosevelt's hunting expedition.

Principal Eames responded to a toast on the "Faculty and Fraternity," and H. Collingwood spoke on "Reminiscences."

Mr. G. G. Cannon was called on for a few remarks which he made in a very pleasing manner. D. P. Knowlton gave a short talk on the "Alumni," while A. T. Brainerd spoke in behalf of the "Seniors."

The baseball team will play the Normal Art school of Boston on the local campus Wednesday afternoon. It will be the first time for several years that the textile boys have played them in baseball and the locals look for a win.

You are sure of a good time at Knights of Equity, Thursday night, Associate Hall. Tickets 50 cents.

GOLDEN WEDDING BLOW WAS FATAL

Mr. and Mrs. Love Observed Anniversary

Man Died After Receiving it

Mr. and Mrs. John Love observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage yesterday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Frederick Chalk, 161 Warren street. The occasion was quietly observed only the relatives and immediate friends of the happy couple being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Love were united in marriage May 10, 1859, in Omaha, County of Tyrone, Ireland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Thompson, an Episcopal clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. Love came to America 25 years ago, living until 1890 in Glenham, N. Y. Mr. Love was engaged in the boot and shoe business in his native land, and he also had a good farm. He is now retired. His health is excellent, as is also that of Mrs. Elizabeth Love, his wife. They have six daughters living, as follows: Mrs. Mary Ann Kallins and Mrs. Baldwin of Matteawan, N. Y.; Mrs. William Turner and Mrs. John W. Payne of Hopewell, N. Y.; Mrs. Charles Groth of Newburgh, N. Y., and Mrs. Frederick Chalk of this city.

NORTH BARNSTABLE, N. H., May 11.—A single blow delivered last night during a quarrel between Peter Ackermann 55 years old, and Oliver Foss, 36 years old, was followed by Ackermann's death. The short scuffle took place in the main hall of this town, in front of Ackermann's home, according to witnesses, and the body remained there for five hours last night, surrounded by a small crowd of curious people, awaiting the coming of the coroner. No arrest was made pending the arrival of the deputy sheriff.

Foss was formerly engaged as a helper on Ackermann's farm. He is married and has one child. Ackermann is not married. The cause of last night's quarrel is unknown, but according to two men who witnessed it, the name of a woman was mentioned shortly before the blow was struck.

THE SITUATION

IN ADANA REPORTED TO BE IMPROVING

ADANA, May 11.—The situation here and throughout the province is improving. The government is beginning to restore the plunder and the people are beginning to return to their homes, many of which are still standing. The military commander has sent troops into country districts to maintain order and enable the refugee farmers to get out and harvest their crops.

The Rev. Mr. Lawson and the Rev. W. N. Chambers have gone to Hadjin to aid the American women teachers there. The Rev. Stephen R. Crowbridge is proceeding to Antak, while Dr. F. D. Sheard has gone to Badkiche, where there is great need, a great majority of the male residents having been killed off.

SIX DROWNED

BY THE CAPSIZING OF GASOLINE LAUNCH

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., May 11.—None being able to swim, George Hall, R. H. Street, Swets wife and four children were drowned in the swollen waters of the Chippewa river Saturday night when Hall's gasoline launch, which they were trying out for the first time, capsized in midstream, striking some sunken piling. Nobody saw the launch capsize.

THE STORE FOR THRIFTY PEOPLE

Lowell, Tuesday, May 11, 1909.

Now Comes Our May Selling of the Newest and Prettiest Under Muslins

That we can find. Though these dainty white garments were all thought of and purchased months ago, when "panicky" times made prices low and manufacturers would accept orders at most any price. Then, too, there are sample garments among them which have been tossed and handled in the show room, but will come out snowy white again after the first rubbing.

Our Underwear comes from reliable makers that are humane in their methods of manufacture—meaning no skimping of the sizes and trimmings, and that the garments are made thoroughly in light, sanitary work-rooms.

Issued Address to Hibernians of Ireland

DUBLIN, May 11.—Matthew Cummings, president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, and the Rev. Father P. H. O'Donnell, state chaplain of Massachusetts, who have been here for the past month as delegates for the order, have issued an address, stigmatizing the local Erin section as "a purely political organization, disregarding of Catholic authority." Accordingly they announce that the American order will refuse to have any connection with this section until it becomes non-political and obedient to Catholic authority.

"Happily," they added, "we succeeded in uniting 800 other Hibernians into one harmonious non-political body obedient to the Catholic church, and suggest that a convention of this body be held not later than August 1."

SHOTS FIRED

BILLERICA PEOPLE WERE GIVEN A SCARE

The discharging of two shots from a revolver in Billerica Centre early Sunday morning caused considerable excitement for a short time. A report that yeggs were shooting up the town got about, but an investigation resulted in it being learned that the shots had been fired by an unknown man who was standing on the steps of the Lexington & Boston R. R. waiting room, who disappeared after firing the shots.

The men fired upon were returning from one of the camps on the Concord river. When they reached the corner of River street and the Boston road where the waiting room is located, one of the men noticed a man on the platform of the building. They drew up the team and called out to the party on the platform, asking him what he was doing there. The reply was two shots fired in rapid succession. Thereupon the men in the team whipped up their horse and got away from the scene with all possible haste.

ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE FIRST SPIRITUALIST SOCIETY HELD

The annual meeting of the First Spiritualist society was held last night in Grafton hall. The attendance was large and considerable business of importance transacted. THAT DRACUT CASE

Hearing Was Resumed Before Judge Hadley Today

The case of Joseph Volloch against Hilda Jubenille and wife and William Stonehouse, which has opened before Judge Hadley in the civil session of the police court yesterday afternoon, was continued this afternoon. This is an action of tort, the plaintiff, who conducts a slaughter house, alleges that the defendants on divers occasions libelled the said plaintiff.

James Stuart Murphy and Bennett Silverblatt represented the plaintiff, while Francis W. and Stanley A. Qui appeared for the defendants.

The suits in the courtroom reserved for witnesses and spectators, the Hebrew district in this city as well as the town of Dracut, being well represented.

Dr. Eaton, of Lowell, who is inspector of cattle in Dracut, was called at the opening of this afternoon's session and testified to the location of the three slaughter houses within the confines of the town.

Witness was shown an article in a local paper relative to the plaintiff and denied that he gave the article to the paper. He said that he gave it to Agent Richardson of the humane society.

The article in question said: "Lowell is the dumping ground for worn out bologna."

"How did you know that Lowell was the dumping ground for worn out bologna?" asked Mr. Qui.

"Some 12 years ago I had a conviction in this court against one Kemp," answered Dr. Eaton.

"Didn't it refer to something that you had seen at Volloch's place?"

"No, sir."

Reading from the paper—Mr. Qui said: "Meats which menace health are unfit for food. I have reason to believe that considerable meat of that character reaches the local markets."

"Did you say that?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where did you get that information?"

"From observation."

"By visiting places throughout the country?"

"At this point Mr. Qui and Mr. Silverblatt had a little tilt relative to a question put to the witness, and the fact was brought out that while the article had been written by Dr. Eaton it had been given to the newspapers by Agent Richardson.

"In your opinion was that slaughter house during the year 1908 conducted in strict conformity to the law?" asked Mr. Qui.

"So far as I saw."

The question was repeated, and witness answered: "It was conducted according to the law as I understood it."

"Was it conducted according to law as you now understand it?"

"I do not know. I have written to the attorney general for an interpretation of the law."

On rebuttal, Lawyer Silverblatt asked questions of his witness which Mr. Qui thought were immaterial. Mr. Qui objected to Mr. Silverblatt cross-examining his own witness. After Mr. Silverblatt had asked witness relative to his interpretation of the law, Mr. Qui said that it was for the court and not for the witness to interpret the laws. Mr. Silverblatt continued to ask more questions, which caused Mr. Qui to say: "We won't finish this case till next fall if you keep asking unnecessary questions."

Harry Kammlaw and Louis Kimmel, the latter of Lawrence, testified in behalf of the plaintiff. Kimmel said he had been in the butcher business for forty years and had killed cattle at Volloch's slaughter house in Dracut. He said the place was kept clean and in good condition.

"Did you say that?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where did you get that information?"

"From observation."

"By visiting places throughout the country?"

FRENCH POSTMEN

Threaten to Inaugurate a Strike

PARIS, May 11.—Whether or not the French postmen are to inaugurate a strike probably will be decided upon as the result of the debate in parliament this afternoon. The leaders of the men declare that unless the Clemenceau cabinet falls, which would involve the disappearance of Under Secretary of Posts and Telegraphs Simey, a strike would be ordered at the meeting to be held tonight.

In spite of the intrigues of the socialists and the followers of M. Combes to withdraw the premier and the machinations of the opponents of M. Poincaré and M. Delcasse, with the same object in view, it is believed that M. Clemenceau is assured a vote of confidence from the chamber.

MAY BE MURDER

Bodies of Men Found in Factory

GLOUCESTER, N. J., May 11.—The bodies of two unidentified men with their skulls crushed were found this afternoon in an abandoned factory building near here. The police say the men were murdered probably in a quarrel among others who made the factory their headquarters. Near the bodies lay a shovel and an iron bar which were splattered with blood. It is believed the men had been dead for two or three days.

N. E. ORDER OF PROTECTION

BOSTON, May 11.—The supreme lodge of the New England Order of Protection held its annual session at the Intercontinental hall, this city, today, attended by more than 200 representatives from the six New England states.

Massachusetts was represented by about 70 delegates, including a number of supreme officers.

According to the reports of the officer read today the lodge has been very prosperous the past year. About 26 new lodges have been initiated with a net increase of 3022 members. The total membership on April 1 last was 58,600, which is apportioned by states as follows:

Maine 714, New Hampshire 2888, Vermont 3175, Massachusetts 27,800, Rhode Island 2425, Connecticut 14,416. The insurance in force at that time amounted to $72,000,000.

CHARLES RIVERS

Victim of a Peculiar Accident

Charles Rivers of 448 Riverside street was the victim of a rather peculiar accident shortly before the noon hour today. While in a team and driving across the Western avenue crossing one of the railroad gates descended upon him, cutting him on the nose and throat. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the Lowell hospital. At the hospital it was stated that the wounds were painful but not necessarily serious.

54 HOUR BILL

WAS KILLED BY THE STATE SENATE

BOSTON, May 11.—The 54 hour bill for women and children employed in the manufacturing and mercantile establishments was killed in the senate today by a vote of 15 to 8. The house passed by a vote of 156 to 6, the resolve amending the constitution to permit the legislature to impose taxes, the adoption of which would permit the passage of the 54-hour bill.

BOULGER ON STAND

Gives Frank Statements on Every Charge Against Board

When the mayor's police board hearing was resumed today Commissioner Boulger, who was on the witness stand during the hearing adjourned yesterday, was recalled and Mr. Johnson continued his examination of him.

You are charged with lack of good faith in the hotel cases," said Mr. Johnson.

"I acted on the hotel cases according to my best judgment," said Mr. Boulger.

Asked upon what he based his judgment when he voted to grant hotel licenses in 1908, Mr. Boulger said he based his judgment upon what attorneys had said and also in view of what Judge Bell had said.

Mr. Boulger was first asked relative to the Arlington Hotel or the grant of its license in 1908. He said he knew Mr. Halloran very well and knew that his house had always borne a good reputation.

Mr. Boulger said he knew Mr. Garrity and his hotel, the Old Washington Tavern. He knew Mr. Garrity to be a man of splendid character and he knew that he conducted a good house.

Mr. Boulger was asked relative to his knowledge of other hotel men and their ability as hotel proprietors and he spoke very well of them so far as his knowledge of them went and he knew most of them for several years.

Witness said that the character of the case against Peter C. Hains Jr. was expected when court opened today to be given to the jury by the Ex-District Attorney George Briggs, who had not finished his summation of the state's case when court adjourned yesterday, expected to end his argument in about an hour, after which the charge of Justice Garretson to the jury would be in order. The justice announced that this would occupy about an hour.

Anxiety as to the verdict of the jury prevailed among the counsel for both state and the defense before the opening of the court. John E. McIntyre, of counsel for Captain Hains said that from his study of the jury he was certain that the jury would vote for acquittal with the remaining four were doubtful. District Attorney Dewitt said that he expected a conviction.

In the event of Captain Hains' acquittal on the grounds of insanity at the time he shot and killed Annie at the Bayview Yacht club last August, the question of his present mental condition will be looked into.

Resuming his address to the jury today Mr. Gregg read from the testimony of the defense witnesses in which they said the defendant was suffering from impulsive insanity when he shot Annie and that the attack subsided as soon as the act was committed.

"Now what kind of insanity do you call that?" said the prosecutor. "I ask you to use your own good common sense in determining whether this man was insane on Aug. 15th, 1908."

"I think the jury will give a good deal of weight to the testimony of Dr. Housh," (the physician who attended Dr. Hains) continued Mr. Gregg. "He was in a position to observe the defendant closely at that time and he did not see any drawn face or glassy eye or twitching muscles or any irrational action."

The prosecutor declared that General Hains and Thornton Hains had taken refuge behind the answer of "don't remember" while under cross-examination. "We could never get any of the rational speeches of Captain Hains out of them," said. "Only the glassy eye, the twitching face and the shuffling walk."

Mr. Gregg finished his argument at 10:30 a. m.

During his charge Justice Garretson warned the jurors against being swayed one way or the other by sympathy.

The jury has the right from the results to find an intent to kill," said Justice Garretson. "But there must not only be an intent, but also a premeditated and deliberate design to kill."

The court defined murder in the first and second degree and manslaughter. He said there was nothing in the record on which the jury could assume that the defendant's act was justifiable or excusable.

"Is there premeditation in this case?" asked the court. "That is for you to decide after a careful study of all the evidence. If you find no premeditation, it is your duty to consider whether the defendant's act comes within the definition of murder in the second degree."

"One may be guilty of manslaughter in the first degree who kills on the impulse of the moment in the heat of passion or because of a peculiar set of circumstances which confront him."

Justice Garretson said a reasonable doubt would not be a mere impression but a moral certainty of the doubt.

JUDGE BRALEY

HAS DECIDED TO APPOINT A MASTER

BOSTON, May 11.—In order to obtain a more speedy settlement of the action by the state against the Boston Banking Co. Judge Braley announced to the supreme court a decision to appoint a master to take a receiver and that a report be on file on May 21st. The master investigating the affairs of the company will go to Cranston, R. I. and interview Thomas D. Taylor, the president of the company, now in jail there, pending the settlement of a Rhode Island suit.

When the case was called today Attorney General Dana Malone urged speedy settlement for the reason, he said, that the board of the bank was a menace to the public. This was denied by counsel for the bank, who was ordered by the court to file his objections and denial in a brief later in the day.

The Boston Banking Co. is one of a series of banking institutions organized by Taylor and is connected with the New England Trust Co. of Rhode Island, now in the hands of a receiver. It has been opened day and night and has a branch office in Worcester.

MAYOR LOGAN

ORDERS A CENSUS OF BATH TUBS IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, May 11.—Mayor James Logan is having a census taken of all the bathtubs in Worcester. The work is being done by the employees of the water department in connection with their regular duties. The mayor's idea in having this unusual census taken is to give him information for the campaign that is under way for the erection of a public bathhouse, that will be open all the year around.

The mayor says some portions of the city are well supplied with private bathtubs, while in others there are very few and he will try to have the public bathhouse placed where it will do the most good.

MISSOURI HOUSE

Opposed to Statewide Prohibition

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 11.—The Missouri house reformers today to concur in the senate amendment to the statewide prohibition resolution, and sent them back to the upper house asking that body to recede. As the senate probably will decline to give up its changes in the measure a conference committee will be appointed. The senate amendments to the resolution, which provide for a popular vote on a constitutional amendment establishing prohibition were two. The first erased the house provision that prohibition if adopted would not become effective until 1912. The second was a tax rider increasing the license for salaried bodies 100 per cent over the present rate. Gov. Hadley's bill, providing for the licensing of social clubs which sell intoxicants to members, was defeated in the house today for the second time.

BILL IS KILLED

It Provided for Direct Nominations

BOSTON, May 11.—The advocates of direct nominations received a decisive defeat in the house today when the bill providing for such nominations for senators and representatives was killed by a vote of 75 to 27. The bill previously had been reported adversely by the committee on elections laws but substituted for that report by a joint vote. A score of republicans joined with almost a solid array of democrats in voting for the bill and half a dozen democrats opposed the measure.

ABSOLUTE SALE IN TWO LOTS, BY PUBLIC AUCTION, OF TWO 2 1/2 STORY HOUSES AND ABOUT 7200 SQUARE FEET OF LAND SITUATED AT NOS. 135 AND 145 SOUTH STREET, LOWELL, MASS.

Saturday, May 15, at 3 o'clock P.M.

As I am unable to give the above property my attention, I have instructed the auctioneer to offer at absolute auction sale my two blocks situated directly opposite the South common and within three minutes walk of the passenger

LOT ONE—No. 135, comprises a four-story block of four and five rooms, with separate water closet to each tenement, gas and sewer, show in a fairly recent of $200 per year in very good repair.

LOT TWO—No. 145, consists of a 2 1/2 story house containing six rooms, large parlor, well heated, also bath, hot and cold water, gas and sewer, extra large porch. The property has been used as a boarding and lodging house by the same tenant for the past fifteen years, showing a yearly rental of $200 per year, which is very cheap for the location and condition of the property. It is located practically in the heart of the city and is close to all the manufacturing industries. One can be assured of economy and should appeal to all parties desiring an investment in a first-class property.

The above-described properties are in very good shape, only recently were thoroughly gone over. Attend this sale, as some one will secure a good bargain. It is to be sold for the highest bidder.

TERMS. $100 to be deposited with the auctioneer on each lot as soon as struck off. Other terms at sale. By order of

STUDENTS STRIKE AS PRECAUTION

1500 Refuse to Go to School

TOKIO, May 11.—Fifteen hundred students of the Commercial High school held their last mass meeting today and adopted resolutions declaring they would no longer attend the school, they then formed a line in front of the building, sang the school song, and then dispersed. The trouble in the Commercial high school commenced some time ago when the students petitioned the government to raise it to the rank of a university. The request was not granted but the minister of education sought to effect a compromise by establishing a new commercial course in the college of law at the University of Tokyo. The trouble continued last week in a fire which nearly destroyed the building. It was suspected that the fire was the work of the enraged students.

The Mintos Take the Pasteur Treatment

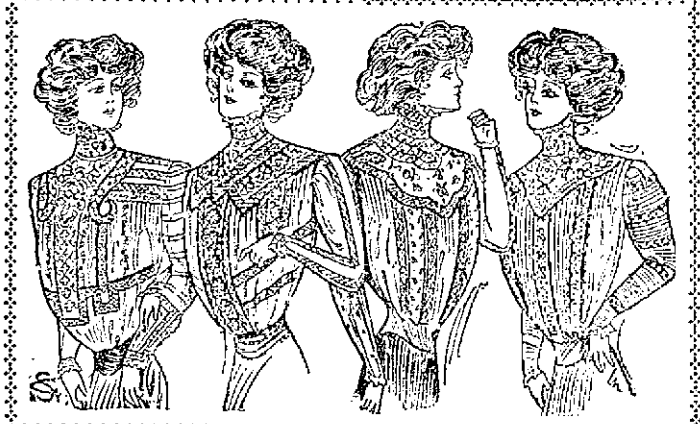

SIMLA, India, May 11.—As a precaution against the possible development of hydrophobia, Lord Minto, viceroy of India, and Lady Minto are undergoing the Pasteur treatment. While the viceroy and his wife were out walking, Lady Minto's lapdog was hampered by a wandering dog, and Lord and Lady Minto went forward to rescue their pet and while neither was bitten, their hands were covered with the saliva of the rabid beast. They submitted to the treatment on the advice of their physicians. Two of the viceroy's servants were bitten by the mad dog and also are taking the Pasteur treatment.

THE HEARING

the hotel men and hotels had been discussed pro and con at board meetings and the other members of the board were of the same opinion as himself.

Fewer Hotels

Witness said he remembered a request from Rev. J. M. Craig for fewer hotels. That was in March, 1908, and the number of hotels was reduced by five.

While the fourth class licenses were taken away from the hotels, Mr. Boulger said it was because of complaints that the law was being violated because of the sale of beer at a discount. The board, however, had no absolute knowledge of this, but he believed that it was the reason for the opportunity being removed.

"Was anything said to you about why some of the hotels did not apply for innkeepers' licenses?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"It seems to me that Mr. Johnson asked why the hotels did not apply for innkeepers' licenses, and I told him that it would be no use for them to apply for innkeepers' licenses," said Mr. Boulger.

The matter he said had been discussed freely and frequently by the board and it had been decided to cut down the number of hotels.

Witness said that he had talked with Mr. King of the Park hotel, and that Mr. King told him he did not want a hotel license, that he could not afford it.

Not Equipped for Hotel

My judgment after inspection of the Park hotel was that it was not equipped for a hotel and that a hotel license should not be granted there. We had nothing against Mr. King. Later improvements were made in the hotel and a hotel license was granted. A hotel license was granted to the Park hotel later in 1908. We did more than the church members asked in their petition to the board. We took away the fourth class privileges of hotels.

Mr. Shattuck told me he was getting up a petition for the reopening of the number of saloons in Middlesex street.

The "Scratch House"

I made personal investigation of conditions in Middlesex street, at night, the same having been complained of, and I found that all of the trouble could be traced to the "Scratch House," a respectable looking place, situated on the land of the Appleton property.

Mr. Boulger said that some of the most disreputable characters in the city gathered there and slept on the floor. He said they paid five cents for the privilege of sleeping on the floor and when they didn't have the five cents they would go into the street and sleep for it. He said the character of those who resorted to the "Scratch House" was such that they would steal the shoes from each other's feet.

Mr. Boulger said there had been a decided improvement in Middlesex street and that Mr. Shattuck, the father of the petition for fewer hotels, told him about the first of the year that a great improvement had taken place in that street.

Mr. Boulger criticized what Mr. Shattuck had had to say at the hearing. He recalled that Mr. Shattuck had said that there wasn't any place in particular in Middlesex street that he objected to. "But he told me," said Mr. Boulger, "that he wanted the Brennan place cleaned out."

Witness said he had personal knowledge of the Brennan place. He knew Mr. Brennan and knew that the place was being properly conducted.

Mr. Boulger had some figures that he had compiled himself relative to taxes and taxpayers in Middlesex street. He said that not a single abutter had objected to a saloon in Middlesex street.

The Callahan License

Mr. Johnson then turned to the charge having to do with the granting of the John H. Callahan & Co. license after the death of Mr. Callahan.

Mr. Boulger said that Lawyer Robert J. Crowley talked with him and with the board and explained to them that it would be just and lawful to grant the license just as before. "The license was granted," said Mr. Boulger, "and I felt then and feel now that the board acted in good faith. The next question up was that of the Joyce license before and after the

Favored Lunch Carts

Mr. Boulger said the board felt that public sentiment was in favor of lunch carts. The board looked upon them in the light of a public convenience to persons out late at night.

Mr. Boulger spoke of the board's knowledge of the bill pending in the legislature relative to the granting of lunch cart licenses. The board had been informed that the bill would be acted upon favorably. The bill would provide that the board of aldermen would grant the license to the lunch carts to stand in the streets, but that the police board would still grant the carts the common victuallers' license.

Mr. Boulger said that the board did not think the owners of lunch carts were violating any law by doing business in the public streets," said Mr. Boulger.

The Keefe License

Mr. Boulger was then asked to tell the board of the Keefe license in Lawrence street. The board looked upon it as a less a reputation of want had already been brought out at the hearing. He told of the surrender of the old license and the granting of a new one. There was nothing in the transaction that appeared to Mr. Boulger to be unlawful.

The Police Department

Charge 27, relative to discipline, was next turned to. Mr. Boulger referred to what Chairman Stevens had said to superior officers on or about Jan. 25, 1909.

"What has in your opinion been the discipline of the department since you became commissioner?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"In my opinion the discipline has been and is very good," said Mr. Boulger. He said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the discipline was much better than it had been previous to the time of the present board.

Mr. Boulger said the members of the present board talked discipline among themselves and he believed that it was the sense of the board that officers should "beat out" nothing with persons in the street and should abstain, especially, the discussion of politics while in uniform. Mr. Boulger said that the board felt that there was a decided improvement in the police department since they came to office.

The Hersey Case

Relative to the Hersey case, Mr. Boulger said that he had been asked by Mr. Johnson to tell the board of the Hersey case. He said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the Hersey case was a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman. He said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the Hersey case was a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman.

Dennis MacBrayne's Story

Witness said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the MacBrayne case was a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman. He said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the MacBrayne case was a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman.

St. Charles Hotel

Mr. Boulger was then asked to tell the board of the St. Charles hotel. He said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the St. Charles hotel was a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman.

doned by counsel for the prosecution, and Mr. Johnson turned to the St. Charles hotel. He said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the St. Charles hotel was a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman.

Druggists' Licenses

Mr. Boulger was then asked to tell the board of the druggists' licenses. He said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the druggists' licenses were a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman.

Mr. Boulger said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the druggists' licenses were a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman.

Common Victuallers' Licenses

Mr. Johnson next turned to the common victuallers' licenses and explained conditions, circumstances and surroundings. He said that all licenses had to be renewed.

Mr. Boulger said that he had been told by Mr. Johnson, Mr. Boulger said that the common victuallers' licenses were a case of a man who had been charged with the murder of a woman.

Cross Examination

Cross-examined by counsel for prosecution Mr. Boulger said that the Sunday liquor law was discussed at the very first meeting of the police board.

Mr. Boulger said he had not formed his opinion as to what constituted a feast or a meal at a hotel and he was willing and did accept the interpretation as laid down by Mr. Wier.

Mr. Boulger said he came into possession of Faxon's handbook of the liquor laws early in April. That was the first time he had ever seen a copy of it.

Mr. Boulger was asked by the mayor to answer yes or no and Mr. Boulger said it was impossible for him to answer certain questions in that way.

LARCENY OF MONEY

Arthur Beausoleil Pleaded Not Guilty to Charge

Arthur Beausoleil was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of $100 in money, the property of the Lowell Electric Light Corp.

He entered a plea of not guilty.

Mrs. Marchand, wife of the complainant, testified that Beausoleil called at her house, 64 Austin street, about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, for her brother-in-law. The latter was not in and she informed Beausoleil. He remained about the house for about half an hour and during that time she had occasion to leave the room for a few minutes. When she came back Beausoleil said he would be going then but would call later.

Witness testified that in the room where the defendant had been seated during his stay in the house was a bureau and in one of the drawers was a tin box containing two pocketbooks. One of the pocketbooks had $48 in bills in it, while in the other there was $20.

Shortly after 6 o'clock last night, when Mr. Marchand returned from work, he went to the bureau drawer for the money and found it missing. The matter was reported to the police. Later in the night Inspector John Walsh arrested Beausoleil in a saloon in Moody street and, despite the fact that the latter had been unable to pay his board yesterday morning, he had $25 in his pocket.

An examination of the bundles disclosed a pair of pants, a leather vest, several pairs of socks, a fancy vest and a necktie. When questioned, Beausoleil told conflicting stories, but finally stuck to the one that he met a man named Thibault, who owed him $100 for work done and the latter gave him $75 of the money. When questioned in court as to where Thibault could be found, he said he did not know as he had said he was going to take a car to Lawrence.

Beausoleil was continued till tomorrow morning for sentence.

Stole Lumber

James Pendergast and Patrick Bridges were arrested last night by Police Officer H. Kilroy and taken to the police station for larceny. It is alleged that the two men stole lumber from the Lowell Electric Light corporation in Perry street and were storing it in a cellar in Concord street when caught by the officer.

In police court this morning they were charged with the larceny of furniture valued at $6, the property of the Lowell Electric Light Corp.

They pleaded guilty, but explained to the court that the lumber was old and they did not think that it was of any use to the company.

Fines of $5 were imposed and the defendants were given two weeks in which to pay the fines.

Cat That Didn't Come Back

Mary C. Uman had Michael Dowd before the court for the larceny of "one domesticated animal, namely, to wit, one Angora cat of the value of $25." Dowd pleaded not guilty to the charge. Lawyer J. Joseph O'Connor contested the case for the government.

Mrs. Uman claimed that her cat was stolen on Oct. 8 and recently learned that Mr. Dowd had it in his possession. She tried to get the cat, but Mr. Dowd refused to give it up unless she paid $10 for the cat's board. This Mrs. Uman refused to do, and she consulted with Mr. O'Connor. In the presence of Mr. O'Connor, Dowd agreed to part with the cat for $10, but Mrs. Uman could not see into paying for the cat and the issuance of a warrant for Dowd's arrest was the result.

Dowd's plea was that he found the cat on the street and took it home. He felt that he was entitled to some remuneration for the trouble he went to in caring for the cat.

Inasmuch as the cat had been given back to its owner and Mrs. Uman did not desire to press the charge, the request of Lawyer O'Connor for the case was dismissed.

Sent to Danvers

Anthony Economides, who last week created considerable excitement in police court by stating he would kill one Anastasius Pifas was this morning sent to the Danvers Insane asylum, he having been adjudged insane by alienists.

Drunk Offenders

Margaret E. Cohen, a fourth offender, who was under a suspended sentence of four months in jail was arrested last night and this morning the suspension was revoked and she was committed to jail.

There were three $3 drunks. The case of Thomas M. Cox, charged with being a vagrant, was continued till tomorrow morning.

and I have not hesitated to say so in argument.

Mr. Johnson then went on, in his letter, to answer specific questions put to him by the chairman, regarding their proper conduct of cases.

Mr. Boulger testified that after the receipt of Mr. Johnson's letter of Dec. 10, charges were preferred against the American house. Later, there were charges brought against all of the hotels. The American house was selected first, because of particular reports of officers on the preceding Sunday, after warning had been given.

"In any of these cases, did the board give a written statement of reasons for the finding?"

"Yes," in the St. Charles. The reasons were substantially the same in all cases. In all cases where there were suspensions, the vote was unanimous."

Mr. Boulger said that in imposing a suspension of 21 days, it was the conclusion of the board amounted to a fine of about $25 a day.

Mr. Boulger was shown the typewritten report of the interview with the board on April 17, and made a correction by inserting the words "that part of their business," where reference was made to the recommendation that the inn holders close from 10 to 12 a. m. on Sundays.

There was never any order, he said, requiring them to close any part of their business, at any time. It was merely a request for them to take it into consideration. No answer to the request was ever given, but Mr. Cushing, at the time, said he thought the suggestion a good one.

Mr. Boulger said further that that request—to consider the suggestion to close from 10 to 12 a. m. on Sundays—came as the result of a conversation that he—Mr. Boulger—had with some of the most prominent Catholic clergymen in Lowell, in regard to Mr. Boulger making every effort to reduce the number of hotels, and at the same time, to try and restrain the sale of liquor on the Lord's day. "They spoke," said Mr. Boulger, "to the temptation to certain men to drop into those places, as they went to and from church. It occurred to me that we might make that request to close that part of their business. I supposed it was perfectly right and proper for me to make an effort of that kind."

Mr. Boulger further explained that a majority of the Catholic people go to church from 7 to 9, and return about 10 o'clock.

He never knew, he said, of a later refusing service of food at any time. In fact, he has seen regular patrons of the places going in and out during those hours specified. "There was no such rule, but they were told to do everything they possibly could to improve conditions."

Whether or not you had any opinion as to whether they were led for the board to make an effort of that kind, my opinion was that they were not. I am of the opinion that they were not led for the board to make an effort of that kind."

Mr. Johnson then took up the case, saying that the commissioners had authorized the service of liquor in a room or rooms where the principal business was carried on was the sale of liquor.

Referring to the slips in the Arlington hotel, Mr. Boulger said that the board had authorized the sale of liquor in a room or rooms where the principal business was carried on was the sale of liquor.

Mr. Boulger testified in reply to another question by Mr. Johnson that he had not a single case, as to the sale of liquor, in which the board had authorized the sale of liquor in a room or rooms where the principal business was carried on was the sale of liquor.

INTERESTING DATA

In Statistical Abstract of the United States

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Seven hundred pages of solid figures, with scarcely a line of "reading matter" accompanying, make a very dry and, to many people, unattractive looking volume. Yet the Statistical Abstract of the United States, containing the number of pages of solid figures, is issued from the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce but labor within a few days, offers to the observing reader and student much interesting as well as instructive information.

The Statistical Abstract, which originated in the Bureau of Statistics nearly years ago under the direction of Hon. John Sherman, then secretary of the treasury, and which in its first issue was a thin pamphlet of but little over 100 pages, has been issued annually by that bureau since that date, increasing from year to year the scope of its operations, until it now includes within its more than 700 pages information regarding a great variety of subjects concerning conditions in the United States: area, population, occupations, labor and wages, educational facilities, agriculture, forestry, and fisheries, mining and manufacturing industries, internal communication, transportation and freight rates, merchant marine and shipping, prices of various commodities in various markets of the country, consumption of the principal articles produced and exported; money, banking and insurance; receipts and expenditures of the government, wealth and public finance, army, navy and pensions; the commerce of the United States and of its noncontiguous territories, its imports and exports by principal articles and its trade with the principal countries of the world, also a brief statement of commercial and financial statistics of the principal countries of the world, closing with a series of tables presenting United States is reported at 5,357,000 horsepower, and the number of wheels which it turns at 52,527. The estimated coal supply of the United States is put down, from statements made before the conservation commission and included in this volume at $123,705,000,000 tons; while the output from the mines of the United States in 1907, the year of the largest production, was 429,000,000 tons, as shown by another table in the same volume. The available iron-ore supply of the United States is estimated at 4,755,000,000 long tons, and the production of iron ore from the mines of the United States in the year 1907 was 22,000,000 tons, the largest total ever produced in a single year. The pig iron produced in the country in the same year of 1907 is shown to have been 25,751,000 long tons, while the world's production of pig iron in that year is given by the same authorities at 60,000,000 long tons. The petroleum supply of the United States as at present known is set down from reports supplied by the United States geological survey at 250 square miles, or somewhat larger than the state of Massachusetts, and the gas area at 10,055 square miles, or about twice as large as the state of Vermont.

Figures of population and immigration supplied respectively by the census and the immigration bureau, and the treasury department records, showing the total number of immigrants coming into the United States in 1907, the year of earliest record, exceeds 26 million; during the fiscal year, 1907, 1908, and 1909, the number averaged more than 1,000,000 persons. The total number of persons of foreign birth living in the United States at the last census, 1900, was 14,400,000, or 27 per cent. of the total population, while in 1890 the persons of foreign birth formed 11.8 per cent. of the total population; in 1880, 12.3 per cent. of the total population; in 1870, 13.2 per cent. and in 1860, 12.7 per cent.

Turning from the population and resources of the country to other subjects, the volume shows from official figures of state authorities, filed with the department of state and compiled by the bureau of statistics, that the popular vote for presidential electors in 1888, the first year in which these records were required by law, was 11,851,405; in 1892, 12,045,603; in 1896, 12,839,218; in 1900, 12,804,518; in 1904, 12,522,219; and in 1908, 11,887,153, or about one vote for every six persons.

The business activities of the busy people of the United States are illustrated by the figures of the post office department which show a growth in receipts, chiefly of course from the sale of postage stamps, from practically 1 million dollars in 1820, to 52 million in 1850, to 20 million in 1870, 33 million in 1890, 61 million in 1890, 102 million in 1900, and 191 million in 1908. The number of letters and post cards sent through the postal system of the United States is given as 6,668 millions in 1907, as against 3,203 millions handled by the postal service by the German empire, 3,359 millions by the postal service of the United Kingdom, 1,119 millions in France, and 1,087 millions in Austria-Hungary. The telegraph messages sent in the United States numbered 9 millions in 1870, 20 millions in 1890, 63 millions in 1900, 80 millions in 1900, and 98 millions in 1907.

The figures with reference to the school system of the country, as supplied by the bureau of education, show some remarkable and interesting facts. The salaries paid to superintendents and teachers in the public schools, for instance, which amounted to 28 million dollars in 1870, 56 million in 1890, and 92 million in 1900, aggregated 135 million in 1900, and in the public schools in 1907 was 16,820,000, and the average daily attendance 11,818,000; while the students in colleges, universities and schools of technology, who numbered 33 thousand in 1880, 40 thousand in 1890, and 48 thousand in 1900, aggregated 130 thousand in 1907. The wealth of the United States in 1880, according to the figures of the census office, was 7 billions of dollars, speaking in round terms; in 1890, 16 billions; in 1890, 30 billions; in 1890, 33 billion; 15,956

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1909. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

THE TAXING OF INCOMES

The day has dawned in the British Islands when the poor will not have to hear all the hardens of taxation. The heavy income tax lifts a great load off the shoulders of the poor. If we followed Britain's example in this, we should see fewer immense fortunes such as those of Rockefeller, Carnegie and several others that are a menace to the people.

TO SLAUGHTER ALLIGATORS

The Florida house has passed a bill providing for the legal slaughter of alligators in the Oklawaha river, from which the reptiles make nightly incursions to the pig pens along the river and carry off swine or swallow them badly.

There is considerable opposition to the bill, however, not only within but without the state, for thousands of northerners annually visit Florida, mainly for the purpose of seeing the alligators. The alligators are thus a source of income there, while their skin is so valuable for leather, that this consideration alone is a strong argument against the extermination of the genus.

THE KIDNAPPERS' SENTENCE.

The sentence to the kidnappers of the Whittia boy in Pennsylvania may be considered severe, but a life sentence for the man and 25 years for the woman is not any more than their crime deserves. Perhaps that will put a stop to the kidnapping game for awhile. There are a good many people in this country who would not object to making death the penalty for the crime of kidnapping in its worst features. There is just one objection, however, and that is, that if the crime were punished by death the kidnappers would take care to kill the child rather than run any risk of letting it live to furnish evidence that might lead to their conviction. Nobody will have any sympathy for those convicted of such a heinous offense even if the sentence be imprisonment for life. The fact that a third party may be implicated as appears probable in this case does not mitigate the offense for the principals who carried out the plot and who were found with the ransom in their possession.

MAYOR BROWN'S BLUFF.

Mayor Brown took advantage of a public meeting last night to caution the people against believing what the newspapers print about him. He wants the people to go to city hall and find out for themselves. Anybody who would attend the public board hearing and hear the testimony of some of the witnesses would find out considerable about Mayor Brown's doings. But that is not what he wants. He wants the people to consult himself about what Mayor Brown is doing and what he intends to do. For our part we do not see that he is doing anything, only holding up the city's business and heaping needless expense on the city.

He charges the newspapers with falsely reporting him, but he should be asked for specific instances. He could no more prove these charges than he can prove his charges against the police board. Ex-Governor Bates must have thought after hearing Brown's tirade against the press, that our mayor is a much abused man, but the press, he will find, has never said much about Brown that it cannot prove. What Brown wants is that the newspapers help him to bluff the public. When Mayor Brown cautions the people against believing what the newspapers say of him, he is probably afraid that the newspapers may come out and tell the whole truth about him and his administration.

If Mayor Brown will point out a single case where he entered office in which The Sun made a misstatement about him, we will publish a retraction.

DEATH FROM USING KEROSENE.

We have had another death as a result of lighting a fire with kerosene oil, the victim being Mrs. Grand-tre of Hadley street. She poured kerosene upon a wood fire that seemed slow to light and in a moment after, the kerosene blew the covers off the stove and spread the flames all around her. When her clothing caught fire she ran out of the house and across the street, falling helpless at the door of a neighbor. That is the usual course followed by a woman when she finds her dress on fire. As we have stated before, it would be better in all such cases if women relied upon their own efforts. They are usually close to one or more faucets and an abundant supply of water. If as soon as the blaze appears they rush to a faucet and turned it on in a dish or some other vessel and empty it on their heads, letting it run down over their bodies or throw it upon the floor and roll over and over in it until the dress soaks up the water, the fire would be extinguished more quickly and with less damage than when the woman runs out into the open air, thus fanning the flames.

If assistance is at hand in such a case the woman should lie down flat on the floor so that the flames will not rise up around her body and head. It is this mistake of standing up and running out screaming for help that makes their case hopeless. No woman need expect to run far with her dress afire without suffering from fatigue.

The best way, however, to avoid these fatalities is to stop lighting fires with kerosene and to be more careful about the use of kerosene lamps. More fatalities have been caused thus in this city than have resulted from large fires in tenement and business blocks. It is all due to carelessness on the part of the people themselves. We have had a sufficient number of fatalities recently to put people on their guard and we hope that the lighting of fires with kerosene will stop and that the kerosene glass lamp will be as far as possible gotten from the homes. If a house-keeper wants to use kerosene to make the wood light more brightly, so as to do so with safety by pouring oil on the wood before lighting it near the fire. But it seems practically useless to caution people against the danger in such cases because in spite of all warnings and in spite of so many horrible examples they will continue to expose themselves to the same danger and to suffer the penalty of their carelessness.

SEEN AND HEARD

When a man says, after he has spent fifteen minutes in the relation of an anecdote, "To make a long story short," you know that you are in for another fifteen minutes.

The practice of rotation in office doesn't appeal so strongly to a man when he is the one who is fortunate enough to hold the office.

It is true that Sir Walter Scott earned half a million dollars with his pen, but just think how much old Mr. Armour has earned out in Chicago with his stockyards.

When a girl says that her hair is naturally curly after she has been out in a fog all the afternoon, believe her.

If the man who is always trying to get something for nothing doesn't get nothing for something before he gets through, he runs contrary to the usual experience.

It is hard to see how it can be true that automobile driving interferes with matrimony when so many young men get good jobs as chauffeurs at thirty dollars a week.

One of the first steps taken in the upland of the farmer was when the bull caught him in the pasture, just before he reached the fence.

The loving wife can never wholly understand why her husband's salary isn't raised more frequently.

One of the mildest men in Lowell just now is a miserly chap who has been sending letters to England right along with a five-cent stamp on each, and has just found out that the postage rate was reduced to two cents an ounce last October.

The woman who is always perfectly frank cannot expect to be successful in politics.

When two old men get together for a conversation, they seldom talk much about anything more recent than twenty years ago.

Some people like to listen while other people like to talk. With proper adjustment why shouldn't everyone be happy?

At a pin shower given recently, the guests brought pins of all description, including hat pins, bar pins, safety pins, fancy and plain hairpins, veil pins, and pins to fasten the curtains. Some brought pins and rolling pins and the bride-to-be was given pins enough to last for many years, but there was no large number of diamond pins in the collection.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the Middlesex county commissioners until May 22, 1909, at 10 o'clock, a.m., at their office in the Courthouse, East Cambridge, Mass., for the erection of a Depository Building to be built at Middlesex county Training school, North Chelmsford, Mass., and at that time and place publicly opened and read.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for the sum of two thousand dollars, payable to the treasurer of Middlesex County, Mass., and endorsed by the contractor, should the contractor refuse to sign the contract or furnish the bond as required in the specifications prepared by Harry Prescott Graves, architect. All proposals must be upon blank forms that may be obtained at office of architect.

A copy of the drawings and specifications of the proposed building may be seen at the office of the architect, 40 Middlesex street, Lowell, Mass.

The commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all proposals.

THE WEARY MUR.

"Who goes with me a weary mile
Is kind to me indeed.
He is a very friend the while
He shares with me my need—
Who doth my tedious hour beguile
Leaves the apostrophe freed."

"I thank him, for I know how few
Possess such kindly heart,
I linger long to say adieu,
And dry the tears that start;
I linger long to say adieu,
I would not from him part."

"But who the second mile doth go,
Who goes so much for me,
He is an angel sent below
From God's eternity—
What may I do to partly show
My love for such as he?"

"Oh, if within the time that gives
To life its interim
Such spirit with the spirit gives
To make his path less dim,
Love thou him for the Christ that lives,
And love the Christ for him!"

PEOPLE OF NOTE

America as well as England is waiting for the new Gilbert-German comic opera, and while the name of Sir William is almost a household word here, not so many know of Edward German, who will set to music the new libretto by the author of "Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance," "Patience," and all the rest. Mr. German was born at Whitechurch, Salop, Eng., a bit more than 47 years ago, and has an individual expression almost as distinct as that of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan. He gained his first musical knowledge by pumping the wind into the organ of the village church, and later went to the Royal Academy of Music to study the violin, giving that up, after meeting with much success, to devote his time to composition. He made his first mark with the incidental music he composed for Sir Henry Irving's revival of "Henry VIII." Since then he has written music for "Romeo and Juliet," "Much Ado About Nothing," "As You Like It," a number of symphonic suites and the operas "The Rival Poets," "The Emerald Isle," with Sullivan, "Merrie England" and "A Princess of Kensington," as well as many songs, including the music for Kipling's "Just So" song book.

Hamilton C. Finley is the first democrat elected mayor of Hoopston, Ill., since the city was incorporated thirty-eight years ago. A wedding that has just been made known by the departure of the bride and groom from New York for Walker, Ar., is that of a son of Portugal Pasha of Constantinople, and Miss Cara Goddard Colt of Bryn Mawr, Pa. The ceremony took place in the chantry of Grace church, and was performed by Rev. Carl Reiland, one of the curates of the parish. Portugal Pasha, or Joseph H. Portugal, as he has called himself since coming to this country, left Turkey at a time when his father was high in the councils of the sultan. He studied mining engineering in England and came here in the interest of a syndicate, which has mining properties in Arizona. Miss Colt is the daughter of the late James P. Colt and is quite wealthy.

CABINET CRISIS CITY CELEBRATES

Plan by Which it May be Averted The Girding of the New Sultan

ST. PETERSBURG, May 11.—A solution of the cabinet crisis, whereby Premier Stolypin and his colleagues in the cabinet will retain their posts, was arranged at a conference between the premier and the emperor, which continued until one o'clock this morning. M. Stolypin returned to St. Petersburg from Tsarskoe-Selo an hour later, bringing the text of an imperial rescript, expressing the confidence of the monarch in the ministers and his gratitude for their services and explaining the motives leading to the rejection of the naval staff bill. The rescript will be published in the official gazette today.

The crisis was solved in a manner peculiarly Russian. The emperor refused to sign the bill providing for a naval staff, because he considered it an invasion of his prerogative, and he declined also to accept the resignation of the cabinet, ordering the ministers to remain at their posts. The latter, after reiterating their representations of the possibility of rendering useful services under these conditions, decided that their duty, according to Russian precedents, was to continue in their offices. The rejection of the staff bill was announced in the customary way by the secretary of empire at a session of the council of the empire last evening. A law establishing a staff will be issued later, as the imperial ukaz is without parliamentary sanction. Under the new conditions the ministry cannot be considered stable, it being pointed out that the prerogative of the duma is merely to vote money, and a dissolution is expected at no distant date.

EX-GOV. BATES

Spoke Before the Lowell Baptist Social Union

"The Heart of the Commonwealth" was the subject of an address delivered by Hon. John L. Bates of Boston at the open meeting of the Lowell Baptist Social Union held last evening at the Western Street Baptist church.

Mr. Bates was the principal speaker of the meeting and from 7.30 to 9.00 a reception was tendered him after which a banquet was served. Then there was speaking and a musical program.

The meeting was opened by Rev. S. W. Cummings of the First Baptist church and he introduced A. G. Walsh as the toastmaster of the evening. Mayor Brown was first introduced by Mr. Walsh and the mayor commended the daily press and made an appeal for re-election.

"I feel it my duty at this time to tell your honored guest, the former governor of this state, that we of Lowell have not forgotten him and I am glad also to note that he has not forgotten us. We should not forget him. We should not forget any person who has done his duty faithfully and well. Those who do not do their whole duty are soon forgotten, but a man of Hon. Mr. Bates' calibre cannot be soon forgotten.

I am trying hard to do my duty. I elected him on certain issues and these issues I am trying to follow out. I think when the three great issues of the day are before us, I will have made my position clear.

"Don't measure me up by the reports in the daily press. I wish the women could vote. I know that they are fair-minded. I don't want you to believe everything you see in the press. I want you all to come up to city hall and find out for yourself. There is something behind everything that is said against me. I know why these articles are written. They are done for the purpose of creating sentiment against me. The press has not been fair with your mayor. When I feel that I want to be judged by my acts and that is all I ask of you. Corporate interests are represented by these papers. These interests are not friendly to me or to the people. They play politics day by day and when you elect their favorites you injure yourselves. I want to place myself right before you and all of the people.

In introducing the speaker of the evening, Toastmaster Walsh stated: "We ought to congratulate ourselves in securing a speaker so desirable as the man whom we have with us tonight. I should like to tell you all the good I know of this man, a man who has served with distinction, a man who has been faithful in the highest office of the state. A man who is true to his convictions, is respected and loved by his fellow men. Such a man is Hon. John L. Bates. His subject, 'The Heart of the Commonwealth,' he knows as well, even better than most big men of our state. It gives me extreme pleasure to present to you, your old friend and Governor Bates."

Mr. Bates was received with applause and said in part: "We live in the age where the watchword is 'pull together.' Compare the times of the present and those of the past and you will see for yourself that good can come from unity in action and purpose. This union of this organization should be a beginning of a power which should develop a great benefit to your surroundings. By going together and working in unity you have strength and in that you make power in your organization.

"We cannot accomplish much if we go at things single-handed. There is no strength unless there is unity of action. And so I see in this organization before me the good which will ultimately result, because it has a unity of its individual powers. I am glad to see the women interested and taking an active part in the proceedings. They are a great help as has been proven in the past. I have never seen anything carried to a successful and unselfish women were attached to it. Man, you owe a lot to your women. You should fully appreciate this fact.

"That is the duty of a state? That is easily answered. A man in Chelsea, who has kindly belonged to the Lowell Baptist church, came upon me one day after it had happened and I asked him what he had saved and his reply was all that the constitution could give: life, health and right to the pursuit of happiness. We don't always measure the good things in life in that way. We should.

"It is the duty of our state to give us the right to health and the pursuit of happiness. We build up our armies at big expense, that we may receive protection. We say that it is the duty of the state also to teach us better and higher living, and this I proudly claim. It is one of the first things considered by our people here.

"Benevolence, charity and virtue are three things which are striving for by our state. It is to these particular points I wish to direct your attention at this time.

"The care the states takes of its unfortunate is one of the most beneficial efforts which it is striving for. Those who are defective in mind and body should be cared for. What a state does for such people shows its standards of civilization. It shows its care for the institutions of our state, for the purpose of showing you what is being done for these people.

"We have a multitude of men and women who the state finds must be placed under guard. We have sentenced to our jails between 28,000 and 30,000 each year, and this number out of a population of some 2,000,000, gives an average of about one to every 100. There are about 10 men confined in these institutions to every woman, and these men are costing the state enormous amounts of money to run them. The cost of the investment of more than $1,000,000 in these buildings. The oldest one of the lot is the state prison at Charlestown. The west wing of that place is the oldest prison in the state, having been built in 1804. This place has its history. It is the place where one of the first men of the state, John Adams, was confined. Previous to 30 years ago, the prison was conducted as all prisons of the time were then. In 1857 the first stone was laid for the new prison and a vote of thanks was extended to the jail for providing heat, that the feet of those confined there should be warm. From that cold winter, from that time, the one can judge the method of caring for the unfortunate who were cast into such places at that time, and they compare the regulations which exist at the present time. Take then the result which have been accomplished by the present system and those of the past, and you will readily see what great improvement for humanity generally has been done.

"You will not find luxury at these institutions at the present, but you will find the necessity of life. Books, pictures and magazines are those of the past, and you will find that the objects of such libraries are most beneficial. You will find a school room where the inmates are taught how to read and write. You will find a debating club. When I visited one of these places recently I came across a blackboard in the workroom, and the latter, and found that the subject which had been treated by the inmates, and which had not been erased from the board, was: 'Resolved, that the profession of the newspaper reporter is of no benefit to society.'

"I was informed by one of the attendants of the institution that not one of the inmates who had come to that institution and had been taught to read and write and had shown a willingness to learn, had ever returned after their discharge.

"The greatest difficulty in most of these places was the work done by those who were confined. If we had the making of cloth in these places we would rise in competition with your mills of Lowell and that would hardly be fair. They divide the work into many branches and attempt to keep everyone busy. On one of my visits I went into a room and saw 50 men working at an old-fashioned handloom. Everyone was engaged in his particular line and seemed to take an interest in it. I was later informed that the work accomplished by these 50 men could be done by one girl possessed of the modern machinery of the present day.

"At Concord the reformatory there is one of the best in the country. They try to give the boy just what he seems adapted to. The warden showed me a statue of 'The Whistling Boy' which had been molded out by one of the inmates there, a young man who had since gone to Europe and made a name for himself as a result of the learning he had received while in this institution. The work done here is to be treasured. The hospital there is the result of the work of the inmates. They planned it and then built it. And this is not the only monument showing the work accomplished by the people who are confined there.

"The institution at Westboro is a great one. There is no high wall on either side. The inmates are free by which they are confined. The result and better method is to place a boy in his honor and the result is most gratifying."

"The work done by the women at Sherburne and the girls at Lancaster was also done on at some length as was also the work done by the many trustees of these different institutions.

"The asylums are interesting also. The old idea of treating the inmates in these places has also passed into oblivion. It is the desire of the state to make these places as cheerful as possible. The locations are made as pleasant as can be, books and papers are provided and everything done to keep in their minds off their immediate surroundings. Don't think it is a hopeless case when you see a person placed in one of these places for it is on record that between 200 and 400 are yearly discharged from these places as cured.

"We have many more wonderful institutions, such as those for the blind, the deaf and the dumb, all which go to make the test and to prove that the state's standard of civilization, as measured in this way, is away above the average."

Comedy was the predominating element in the new program presented at the Opera House yesterday afternoon and evening, when an entire change of bill was offered. Heading the program are Hill, Cherry and Hill, an exceptionally clever trio of trick and comedy bicyclists, who perform many of the most difficult tricks on a wheel, and in a good act of this kind as seen here recently. In addition to the many excellent tricks on the wheel, the comedians of the trio keeps the audience laughing from their first entrance to the close of the act.

And that famous story "St. Elmo" in 1863 she was married to Col. L. M. Wilson, who died in 1891. She was born in Columbus, Ga., and in her early childhood lived at San Antonio, Tex. She is survived by three sisters: Mrs. Virginia B. Briggs of Mobile, Mrs. J. W. Bush of Birmingham and Mrs. Leo Tarleton of New York.

Lowell from the film manufacturers. All pictures are high class and nothing inferior, suggestive or gruesome is permitted on the Academy screen. The shows run daily from 2 to 3 and from 7 to 10.30. On Saturday a continuous show is given from 2 to 10.30. Seats are only five cents, while there are some reserved seats at five cents extra.

Yesterday the Theatre Vobons offered a surprise to its patrons in the form of a mixed program which sang the illustrated songs. This program is composed of Mr. White, Winifred Flagg Symonds, Jack Macomber and Charles Rogers. May Whitley sings as her solo "Longing for You Sweetheart." Winifred Flagg Symonds sings "Denver Town," Charles Rogers sings that best of carnival songs, "Germany." One of the pictures is especially worth of note at this time when much attention is given to Roosevelt's hunting expedition.

The annual banquet of the Phi Psi of the school was held Saturday night at the Waverly Hotel. At the conclusion of the dinner, speeches were in order. H. Macdonald acting as toastmaster.

Principal James responded to a toast on the "Faculty and Students" and H. Collingwood spoke on "Reminiscences." Mr. A. G. Camack was called on for a few remarks which he made in a very pleasing manner. D. P. Knowlton gave a short talk on the "Alumni." Mr. A. E. Fitzgerald spoke in behalf of the "Students."

The baseball team will play the Normal Art school of Boston on the school campus Wednesday afternoon. It will be the first time for several years that the twelve boys have played there in baseball and the locals look for a win.

You are sure of a good time at Knights of Equity, Thursday night, Associate hall. Tickets 50 cents.

Miss Fern Foster is exceptionally good as "Oliver Twist." Owing to the fact that it requires a small, little person to do justice to the part, it is very difficult for a grown person to portray Miss Foster, however, who is very versatile, played the part in a manner which elicited much praise.

The scene in "Fagan's" den up the second act when Miss Alice Hazen as "Nancy Sykes" defends "Oliver" against "Fagan" is a piece of acting. The plotting of "Fagan" and "Bill Sykes" (Arthur Evans Clarke) in the third act is also worthy of special mention.

One of the most realistic climaxes, however, is the death of "Fagan" in the prison in the last act. Those who witnessed the acting of Mr. Carleton in this particular scene will long remember it as an exceptionally fine piece of stage work.

The dual part of "Mr. Brownlow" and "Mr. Monks" was taken by Mr. James Merton, and well acted. Mr. Frank Edward as "Mr. Dumble" and Viola Armstrong as "Mrs. Corney" furnished enough of comedy to evenly balance the sad parts of the play.

GOLDEN WEDDING BLOW WAS FATAL

Mr. and Mrs. Love Observed Anniversary

Man Died After Receiving it

Mr. and Mrs. John Love observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage yesterday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Frederick Chalk, 161 Warren street. The occasion was quietly observed only the relatives and immediate friends of the happy couple being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Love were united in marriage May 10, 1859, in Omah, County of Tyrone, Ireland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Thompson, an Episcopalian clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. Love came to America 25 years ago, living until 1899 in Glenham, N. Y. Mr. Love was engaged in the boot and shoe business in his native land, and he also had a good farm. He is now retired. His health is excellent, as is also that of Mrs. Elizabeth Love, his wife. They have six daughters living, as follows: Mrs. Mary Ann Knibbs and Mrs. Helen W. Turner, N. Y.; Mrs. William Turner, N. Y.; Mrs. John W. Payne of Hopewell, N. Y.; Mrs. Charles Groth of Newburgh, N. Y., and Mrs. Frederick Chalk of this city.

NORTH BARNSTABLE, N. H., May 11.—A single blow delivered last night during a quarrel between Peter Ackermann 55 years old, and Oliver Foss, 35 years old, was followed by Ackermann's death. The short scuffle took place in the main road of this town, in front of Ackermann's door, according to witnesses, and the body remained there for five hours last night, surrounded by a small crowd of curious people, awaiting the coming of the coroner. No arrest was made pending the arrival of the deputy sheriff.

Foss was formerly engaged as a helper on Ackermann's farm. He is married and has one child. Ackermann is not married. The cause of last night's quarrel is unknown, but, according to two men who witnessed it, the name of a woman was mentioned shortly before the blow was struck.

THE SITUATION

IN ADANA REPORTED TO BE IMPROVING

ADANA, May 11.—The situation here and throughout the province is improving. The government is beginning to restore the plunder and the people are beginning to return to their homes, many of which are still standing. The military commander has sent troops into country districts to maintain order and enable the refugee farmers to get out and harvest their crops.

The Rev. Mr. Lawson and the Rev. W. N. Chambers have gone to Hadjin to aid the American women teachers there. The Rev. Stephen R. Fowler is proceeding to Adinab, while Dr. F. D. Shepard has gone to Hadjibeh, where there is great need, a great majority of the male residents having been killed off.

THREE LOST

FOG CUT OFF MEN FROM THEIR VESSEL

PORTLAND, Me., May 11.—The Boston fishing schooner Helen P. Thomas, arrived here last night with her flag flying at half mast and reported that three of the crew were missing.

The crew was fishing at Cash's banks, which is about 50 miles from Portland, Sunday, when a thick fog came up and cut off the three men.

Lowell, Tuesday, May 11, 1909.

Now Comes Our May Selling of the Newest and Prettiest Under Muslins

That we can find. Though these dainty white garments were all thought of and purchased months ago, when "panicky" times made prices low and manufacturers would accept orders at most any price. Then, too, there are sample garments among them which have been tossed and handled in the show room, but will come out snowy white again after the first rubbing.

Our Underwear comes from reliable makers that are humane in their methods of manufacture—meaning no skimping of the sizes and trimmings, and that the garments are made thoroughly in light, sanitary work-rooms.

Issued Address to Hibernians of Ireland

DUBLIN, May 11.—Matthew Cummings, president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, and the Rev. Father P. H. O'Donnell, state chaplain of Massachusetts, who have been here for the past month as delegates for the order, have issued an address to the Hibernians of this country, stigmatizing the board of organization as "a purely political organization, disregarding of Catholic authority." Accordingly they announce that the American order will refuse to have any connection with this section until it becomes non-political and obedient to Catholic authority.

"Happily," they added, "we succeeded in uniting 3000 other Hibernians into one harmonious non-political body obedient to the Catholic church, and suggest that a convention of this body be held not later than August 17."

SHOTS FIRED

BILLERICA PEOPLE WERE GIVEN A SCARE

The discharging of two shots from a revolver in Billerica Centre early Sunday morning caused considerable excitement for a short time. A report that yeggs were shooting up the town got about, but an investigation resulted in it being learned that the shots had been fired by an unknown man who was standing on the steps of the Lexington & Boston R. R. waiting room who disappeared after firing the shots.

The men fired upon were returning from one of the camps on the Concord river. When they reached the corner of River street and the Boston road where the waiting room is located, one of the men noticed a man on the platform of the building. They drew up the team and called out to the party on the platform, asking him what he was doing there. The reply was two shots fired in rapid succession. Thereupon the men in the team whipped up their horse and got away from the scene with all possible haste.

TO ABOLISH BASKETBALL

CAMBRIDGE, May 11.—The Harvard athletic committee voted last night to abolish basketball as one of the Harvard sports. Lack of interest in the game as an intercollegiate sport is understood to be the reason.

FOUR MEN KILLED

COLUMBUS, Kas., May 11.—The athletic committee of the Latent Powder mills, at Turck station, near here, blew up yesterday, killing four men.

You Will Need an Oil Stove

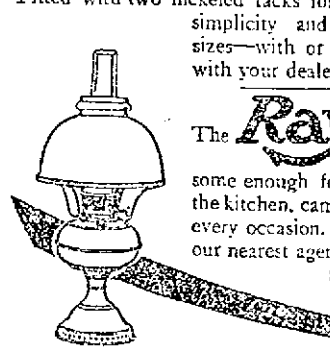

When warm days and the kitchen fire make cooking a burden—then is the time to try a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove.

Marvelous how this stove does away with kitchen discomforts—how cool it keeps the room in comparison with conditions when the coal fire was burning. The is the only oil stove built with a CABINET TOP for holding plates and keeping food hot after cooking. Also has useful drop shelves on which to stand the coffee pot or teapot after removing from burner. Fitted with two nickel racks for towels. A marvel of comfort, simplicity and convenience. Made in three sizes—with or without Cabinet Top. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp just such a lamp as every one wants—handsome enough for the parlor; strong enough for the kitchen, camp or cottage; bright enough for every occasion. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

"IN IN FOUR"

FROM early in June Beverly, Mass., will be the summer capital of the United States. The temporary White House, which looks out to sea from Salem, will be the residence of the president-elect, Mr. Taft. The president-elect, Mr. Taft, is expected to arrive in Beverly on the morning of June 1st. The temporary White House, which looks out to sea from Salem, will be the residence of the president-elect, Mr. Taft. The president-elect, Mr. Taft, is expected to arrive in Beverly on the morning of June 1st.

Where the Tafts Will Rest. The house which the president is to occupy and the grounds about it and the stables are in the hands of the renovators now. All will be ready about June 5. The house is a cottage, two stories and a half high, and it is painted green. There are trees, shrubbery and stretches of grassy lawns. Two great stone posts guard the main entrance, which is from the beach. The cottage is hidden in a clump of trees. It stands on Burgess point. A man who designed yachts once lived there. A porte-cochere shelters the driveway leading to the house. Verandas are on three sides of the cottage. A tower surmounted by a dome looks out toward the sea. A veranda leads from the second story to the dining room which can be reached from every bedroom in the house. One enters the great living room by a hall on the Beverly side. This hall is lighted by glass doors which open on the veranda on the ocean side and four stained glass windows over the landing on the main staircase. The living room is finished in paneled oak, with a tapestry paper running to the ceiling molding. A staircase from the living room leads to a balcony, around which are the chambers, six in number, on the second floor. A chandelier hangs from a paneled ceiling. The music room is to the right of the living room and is finished in white. The library is on the left and is finished in cherry. Easy chairs are convenient, and from a great library the president may communicate with whomsoever he pleases by long distance telephone. All the bedrooms are on the second floor and have ocean views. For the most part they are finished in white. The bedsteads are of brass. Every modern convenience is attached to these rooms. The guest chambers, handsomely furnished, are on the third floor. The dining room is to the left of the living room. It is about thirty-five feet by eighteen feet and has spacious windows that open seaward. This room is finished in paneled English oak to a height of ten feet, and the paper is a tapestry, with a heavy white cornice at the ceiling. The dining table, the Chippendale buffet and the colonial chairs are in mahogany. A great fireplace adds to the welcome appearance. The whole cottage is electrically lighted and has every modern convenience. The stables accommodate a half dozen horses, and there is still room for a large and well equipped garage. The house, containing thirty rooms, was built by A. B. Turner. It was afterward purchased by John Stetson, the Boston theatrical manager, and he sold it to Robert Dawson Evans, who remodeled it. He owns and occupies a cottage near by, and for this reason the cottage to be occupied by President Taft is known as the Stetson cottage. The premises were inspected by Mrs. Taft in March, and she arranged for the lease. It has usually rented for between $5,000 and $6,000 for the season.

Whether Boston is the hub of the universe depends upon where one stands when one looks at it. Nevertheless one of the big spokes in the finances of the city is President Taft's landlord, Robert D. Evans. A year ago he entered into a contest for the control of the United States Mining and Smelting company. He forced his fight so persistently that his opponents concluded that a compromise was better than a pitched battle. To eliminate Evans the other members of the company bought his stock. Evans had 100,000 shares. When he stepped out a few days ago Sidney M. Winslow and his associates had the stock and Evans had $5,000,000 in cash, and it is in bank to his credit. It is safe to hazard the opinion that if the plumbing in the cottage on Burgess point gets out of order the landlord will see that it is fixed.

Beautifully adapted as this cottage is for a summer home, it is not ostentatious as compared with many of the homes on the north shore. Its chief charm is its restfulness. The commonplace expression "an ideal summer home" fits it exactly. Highly developed roads make the place accessible. The Myopia club, six miles distant, has wooded roads exclusively for horseback riding. There is a pier on the property, but the water is not deep enough for yachts of the Mayflower or Dolphin type. The Jubilee Yacht club of Beverly has already tendered to President Taft an honorary membership. At its first the presidential yacht can easily run up on the incoming tide. In Salem harbor, near by, a battleship could come to anchor. The bay directly in front of the cottage is an ideal course, and over it are run races for power boats. On this course next fall will be all the trials for the world's speed record with Germany. In the village, the mile away, are both Episcopal and Methodist churches.

Executive Branch Officers. Should the president decide to take a clerical party to Beverly the board of trade of Beverly will tender him the use of its rooms. The offer has already been made by A. A. Evans, president of the organization. The summer capital of the executive branch has not always been a place of perfect peace. From Oyster Bay, for example, Mr. Roosevelt gave the order for the cruise of the battleships around the world. From there he sent the American cruisers racing to Beirut when it was falsely reported that the American consul had been shot. From Sagamore Hill he watched and influenced two presidential campaigns, and it was from his summer capital that he arranged for the Portsmouth peace congress.

Just as the present administration is quite subdued as compared with its predecessor, so will Beverly be serene in contrast with Oyster Bay. Of course the government goes on regardless of the whereabouts of the chief executive, but the chief must keep in touch with the machinery wherever he may be. Almost any day the president may be called from a siesta on the veranda by the tinkle of the bell on his table caused by Secretary Fred Carpenter at the executive office in the village, who will have been called up by Washington on government business that must have immediate attention. The system will be the same as that established at Oyster Bay. Secretary Carpenter will remain at Beverly during the presidential season there. He will probably have one or two assistants, Executive Clerk Latta and stenographers and messengers.

Socially and Historically Pre-eminent. While President Taft is proverbially democratic in his communications, it is hardly likely that the environment of the summer capital will develop many characters such as, for example, Amos Boscawen of Oyster Bay, who was always on hand to greet Mr. Roosevelt on the arrival or departure of the latter. Nor will the president meet the "rowdy" manners of the community of Oyster Bay. The north shore is decidedly exclusive, and everybody on the coast is more or less chary of strangers. The secret service stealthily detailed by Chief White will have much to do at the summer capital on Salem Bay. A shell from a 30-39 Springfield rifle would get lost trying to leave its way through any hedge in the vicinity of Beverly. The sign "No Trespassing" is not frequent down Salem way. It is generally understood that you are not to cross the road unless you have credentials.

The north shore is compassed about with the most picturesque seacoast scenery of America. In an oddway way it begins at Nahant, the home of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, and stops at the tip of Cape Ann, the peninsula of Gloucester, Lynn, Salem, Swampscott, Marblehead, Beverly, Manchester, Macclesfield, Ipswich Bay, Rockport, Pigeon Cove, Annisquam, Essex, Hamilton, Ipswich—all picturesque, all historic—are in the zone of the summer capital. Not far beyond the zone is Portsmouth, and it is only a four hours' run by rail to Portland, Me. In the opposite direction on the north shore are Plymouth and its wonderful country, the home of Webster being one of the interesting points. And, then, as Daniel Webster put it when extolling the glories of the old Bay State, "There are Lexington and Concord," and if memory is not very much on the alert, "There is Bunker Hill."

In history, in scenery, in climate, in every accessibility and in every prominence the summer capital of the United States this year is far and beyond any in the history of summer resorts in the country. ARTHUR ERNEST HARDWICK.

Turkey's New Sultan, Mohammed V.

Story of the Causes Which Led to the Deposing of Abdul Hamid II.

RECHAD as Mohammed V. is the thirty-fifth sultan of Turkey. He is half brother to Abdul Hamid II, who was deposed Tuesday, April 27, after a reign of thirty-two years. Again the Young Turks have triumphed. The last chapter in the reign of Abdul Hamid and the first in the reign of his successor is brief and dramatic. Abdul was deposed for his interference with the progress of popular government under the constitution granted to him last July. The charge was decided upon by the national assembly without a dissenting voice and carried out with rapidity. The formal decree removing Abdul Hamid from all power over the Turkish empire was issued by the Sheikh-ul-Islam, the head of the church, in the regular form prescribed by the tenets of the Mohammedan faith. The declaration authorizing the throne went to parliament house in Constantinople at ten minutes past 10 o'clock April 27. Five minutes later parliament pronounced the deposition of Abdul Hamid, and forty minutes later, after the receipt of the decision of the head of the church, the national assembly invited Rechad to succeed. A salute of 101 guns announced the end of the reign of Abdul Hamid II and the beginning of that of Mohammed V. Rechad Effendi, the new sultan, is said to be a man of refinement, education and integrity, much superior to his brother in intellect and appearance. He was born at Constantinople in the immediate vicinity of Constantinople, and his countrymen with the outside world were closely restricted by the orders of the sultan. He has lived practically a prisoner for twenty-five years in the huge palace and gardens of the Yildiz Kiosk. Since the July revolution, when the Young Turk party won the constitution from Abdul Hamid, he has been often in the company of Constantinople, looking from his carriage windows on scenes which must have been strangely interesting to him.

strong, to judge from his appearance. He is sixty-five years of age, but inexperienced in statecraft and affairs of the world. The incidents of the empire have long had their eyes fixed on Rechad as a possible successor to his brother. This fact aroused the jealousy of the sultan and was the cause of Mohammed Rechad's practical captivity and surveillance. Abdul Hamid conducted the empire single handed for thirty-two years. Unlike other great despots, he ruled without council and without a confidant. He worked sixteen hours a day and was a virtual prisoner at his desk. He gave frequent proof of a capacity for affairs that astounded accidental business men. Abdul Hamid II was the thirty-fourth sultan. He was born in 1842. He was thirty-three years of age when he came to the throne. He was elevated to succeed his older brother, Murad V, who was removed at the outset of the Turkish revolution as an incompetent. Before Abdul reached the throne he had traveled through Europe with his uncle, the Sultan Abdul Aziz. Whenever he did to others, he saved the lives of his relatives. His older brother, Murad V, lived out his life confined to a splendid palace on the Bosphorus. According to the Moslem belief law, there cannot be two sultans at the same time. The reigning sultan at the time of the revolution was Abdul Hamid II. In order to change the government of the empire during the reign of the sultan, the revolutionaries had to remove him. Abdul Hamid II was removed from the throne and his life was spared. He was confined to a splendid palace on the Bosphorus. Since the July revolution, when the Young Turk party won the constitution from Abdul Hamid, he has been often in the company of Constantinople, looking from his carriage windows on scenes which must have been strangely interesting to him.

the capital to be informed that in their prayers they were to eliminate the sultan. This was in such direct contravention of the precedent from time immemorial that the troops revolted. They did not understand that the order came from the sultan himself. It was a part of the trick to have them labor under the impression that the trade had been forced to the sultan. The cabinet who were hostile to the sultan, and the revolt of April 13 was not the president of the chamber, as were regarded by the Young Turks as the victims of the revolution.
